OLD INTERURBAN LINE TO SAVE VANCOUVER?

GAGLARDI
his solution

VANCOUVER (CP) — Highways Minister Gagliardi suggested today the Greater Vancouver's old Interurban Railway should be rebuilt as an 80-mile-an-hour commuter system to put an end to the city's traffic jams and parking problems.

The minister said in an interview that such a system could feed a train a minute into the downtown area of Vancouver from as far away up the Fraser Valley as Chilliwack.

He suggested that re-establishment of the old electric rail line, started in 1891 but abandoned some years ago by the B.C. Electric, should be the subject of an express transit study by the B.C. Research Council.

The minister said the right-of-way and some of the old tracks into the Fraser Valley are still in existence.

"It sounds to me like the solution and I haven't been so wrong in the past, have I?" the minister said.

FIRE RAGES

Gander Airport Closed

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Gander International Airport, a refuelling strip in central Newfoundland, was closed today because of a forest fire raging nearby.

Few details were available over shaky telephone lines, but a spokesman said the airport was closed at 3:30 p.m. local time.

An early-afternoon report said the fire was burning about four miles east of the town of 5,500. The airport is two miles north of the town.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Smallwood said today that women and children may have to be evacuated from the fire-threatened town of Gander.

Mr. Smallwood told a press conference that if the evacuation order is put into effect, women and children will be brought by train to St. John's and housed in vacant Pepperell Air Force Base.

Two Mills In Path Of B.C. Blaze

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A forest fire which has been burning for a month southeast of here burst into frenzied activity late Monday night and launched a three-front attack on two small sawmill operations.

Fifteen miles from this B.C. city at Grove, the blaze is roaring over some 40,000 acres with undiminishing acceleration.

One arm raced between the Schlitz Brothers sawmill and the Frost Lake sawmill. Other fronts licked around either side of the area. In some places the blaze was only a few yards from bunkhouses and saw lumber stacks.

The wind change which drove the blaze to the logging operations drove it away from four farms it was rapidly approaching earlier.

A fleet of Avenger water bombers during the day drenched fires started by "devil winds"—winds created by the heat of fires which hurl flaming sparks into the air and carry them for more than a mile.

SKIES CLEAR

Ninety fires were raging in the giant northern forest district which covers a third of B.C.'s physical area. Skies during the day were clear of dense smoke that has plagued air fire-fighting operations. No measurable rain has been recorded since July 28.

TRIES TO BLOCK BAHAMA LAND SALE

Woman Fights Wengren Deal

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — A court ruling on a claim by a 100-year-old woman that has blocked a $14,000,000 land deal was postponed today until Wednesday.

Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren says he and his predecessors have held title to the property, on nearby Hog Island, as far back as 1920 and he wants to sell it.

Mrs. Roseliza Price, who reached her 100th birthday last Sunday, contends she owns a narrow strip of land bisecting the property from one side of the island to another.

Both parties filed documentary evidence in court Monday. Wenner-Gren wants to sell the land to Huntington Hartford.

Mrs. Price says she has owned the property for 70 years.

She spent several hours in court testifying, assisted by her great grandson Tommy Robinson, a member of Nassau's last Olympic and British Empire Games teams.

Douk Security Patrols Proposed by Bonner

East Berlin Cheers Greet Adenauer

(Times News Services)

BERLIN — Crowds of East Berliners cheered Konrad Adenauer today as the West German chancellor toured the barricaded border between East and West Berlin.

COMMUNIST loudspeaker trucks blasted attacks against Adenauer on two occasions but tense-faced "people's police" were unable to prevent excited East Berliners from gathering to wave at him.

A police cordon held back a large crowd of Communist-zone residents in the Brummenstrasse, about 500 yards from the Brandenburg Gate, but the East Berliners recognized Adenauer's motorcade and began cheering and waving handkerchiefs.

The chancellor toured the sector border shortly after he arrived from Bonn with a promise that West Germany will use its "full political and oral power" to preserve the freedom of West Berliners in coming negotiations with Russia.

In the Potsdamer Platz, junction of the Soviet, U.S. and British sectors, Communist loudspeaker taunts referred to Adenauer as "Dear Konny" and said his "serious face" recalled the rages of Adolf Hitler.

The French diplomatic dispatches here said, want to leave the first move for any East-West negotiations up to Moscow on the ground the Russians caused the Berlin crisis in the first place.

At the Brandenburg Gate another truck played a Western hit tune as Adenauer drove up for a look at the closed crossing point. The truck boomed out, an ironic welcome: "You come late, Mr. Chancellor, we have acted in the meantime."

About 200 yards behind the gate scores of the East Berliners—some armed with binoculars—gathered. Police and East German soldiers ordered them to move on but few left the scene.

Adenauer also was cheered by East Berlin citizens as he passed Communist-zone houses that front the border with West Berlin. East Germans waved and wept in windows along the Bernauerstrasse.

The loudspeaker truck at the Potsdamer Platz was accompanied by a water cannon that pointed its hose in Adenauer's direction.

Thousands of West Berliners lined the streets to wave to Adenauer.

The present positions of the Big Powers are not so antagonistic as to rule out a meeting between them," Nehru said.

ART THEFT IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — A car with 10 paintings in the trunk—among them a French landscape by Monet, and a scene by Uttrillo—was reported stolen from a garage here Monday night.

OFFERS TO SELL

Wrightson immediately offered to sell it to the gallery for the £140,000 which he paid for it.

A campaign among art lovers to keep it in the country followed and early this month treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd announced Britain would buy it back.

The portrait is the best known of three which Francisco Goya painted of the Duke of Wellington, the "Iron Duke" who was one of Britain's great heroes of the Napoleonic wars.

The robbery came nine days after eight Cezanne masterpieces were snatched from a gallery in Aix-en-Provence, France. Speculation immediately arose that the London theft might be the work of the same gang.

Both the Cezanne and the Goya pictures are far too famous ever to be sold on an open market.

The rash of bigtime art robberies has baffled police in Europe and the United States. The loot in every case is so well-known—that it is unsaleable.

Blames 'Cranks' For Fires

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Bonner today suggested security units might be organized by orthodox Doukhobors to meet terrorist attacks against their settlements in the Kootenays.

Mr. Bonner, here to attend British Columbia Research Council meeting, said he had asked the RCMP to study means of setting up volunteer guards following the latest outburst of fire bombing in two communal settlements near Trail Sunday.

The attorney-general said the first step might be to organize night patrols to prevent sneak attacks. He said he could not elaborate on what power and status such patrols might have.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

Their success would depend entirely on the co-operation of the Doukhobors—I have no idea at the moment what their powers would be," Mr. Bonner said.

He blamed Sunday's barn and home burnings on "a group of Doukhobor cranks who are seeking to dissuade the orthodox people from making land purchases."

The government has offered to sell to the Doukhobors the land on which they have settled for some 60 per cent of its assessed value. Violence has flared since some of the Doukhobors, mainly the orthodox group, have moved to take up the government's offer.

Twelve orthodox Doukhobor families totalling 37 persons were left homeless in the weekend terrorist outbreak in which 26 homes, barns and workshops were burned down.

Father Drives Car Over Infant Son

BEMIDJI, Minn. (UPI) — Three-month-old Jonathan Haworth of Winnipeg was killed today when he was run over by a car driven by his father. The infant was in a bassinet outside a vacation cabin when his father, James Haworth, started the car and moved it a few feet, not knowing Mrs. Haworth had left the baby there.

An outcry developed among British art lovers at the thought that it might go to the United States. The picture was classified as a national treasure.

FRUIT JUICE 'THE BERRIES' TO RUSSIAN ASTRONAUT

MOSCOW (UPI) — Astronaut Gherman Titov's space dinner began with a tube of toothpaste-like concentrated soup.

The latest installment of Titov's autobiography being published by the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said the meal was rounded out with beef and liver paste, real bread, vitamin pills, water and black currant juice—all encased in five tubes.

Titov said the tubes lost their weight in space and so did the food and drink. The astronaut said he spilled a few drops of the fruit juice during his state of weightlessness.

The drops of juice floated in the air, looking like real berries, he said.

Titov said he used his camera not only to photograph the earth below him but also to take two shots of himself. He said he photographed his legs which was floating above his head during a period of weightlessness.

The astronaut said the air in his space cabin was normal, enabling him to work most of the time with his helmet open. Titov said his "cosmic sleep" was very easy. He said his limbs never felt numb. "I felt like I was riding a sea wave," he said.

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. — A navy widower with 10 children and a widow with eight of her own, who met a month ago, have set a wedding date of Sept. 9 in the Carmel Mission on the Central California coast.

The couple are Francis Louis Beardsley, a navy chief warrant officer, and Mrs. Helen North, 31, of San Leandro. Mrs. North said a relative told her of Beardsley's loss. Her husband had died about the same time. She began a correspondence with Beardsley which culminated in a dinner date about a month ago. He gave her a diamond ring a week later.

Mrs. North said all 18 children "think it's wonderful." They range in age from her Teresa, 1, to his Michael, 17.

DEFUNIAK SPRINGS, Fla. — Roy Rogers has been charged with shooting Jack Armstrong with a gun belonging to Gene Autry. The shooting took place Monday. All three are Negroes. Sheriff Andy Anderson said Rogers was jailed on an assault charge. Armstrong was in hospital.

PISA — A young Italian carrying a small saw walked up to the Leaning Tower of Pisa here Monday night.

Police, who have been guarding the tower since an anonymous letter-writer threatened earlier this month to blow it up, moved in quickly to intercept him.

A police constable asked the youth what he was doing. "I want to straighten it," he replied.

The youth was sent to hospital for observation.

MIDHURST, England — Frank Heslop, an 80-year-old butcher boy, got a raise yesterday after working for 42 years for $7 a week.

Heslop got his raise—an undisclosed amount—when he went to work for a new employer after his old boss died.

The five-foot two-inch delivery boy took the job after being discharged from the British army following the First World War.

Heslop's new employer, butcher Edward Knight, said: "I offered old Frank more money years ago to work for me but he was loyal and stuck to the old job."

"I don't think he can ride a bike like all the other butcher boys. But Frank pulls his weight and is a very useful chap."

Knight said that before the war $7 a week "was not bad pay." Heslop worked six days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and never once had a holiday. He said this never bothered him.

"I liked the work and meeting people. My wife, who is 84 now, worked until recently as a cook," he said. "I never asked how much money she got, and maybe she was too polite or something to tell me."

HONOLULU — Charles Lo, 18, dived from a seawall at Waikiki Beach to join a girl who was up to her neck in water.

Minutes later the youth was taken from the water unconscious and paralyzed from the chest down.

Police said he didn't know the girl was sitting down.

ATLANTA — The will of Mrs. Edna Avery Jones, submitted for probate here, sets up a $300,000 trust fund for three dogs owned by her late son.

Mrs. Jones, 80, had been caring for the dogs since the death of her son, Reagan, three years ago, according to relatives. Mrs. Jones was "anything but eccentric," one of them said.

LONDON — As far as London Airport safety officials are concerned, they couldn't care less if Sir Winton Churchill never flies again.

As the 86-year-old statesman emerged from the VIP lounge to board his Monte Carlo-bound plane Monday, airport officials held their breath in shocked amazement.

Near a notice warning passengers not to smoke, Winnie lighted up his trademark cigar. He walked to the waiting jet and puffed away—directly beneath an overflow fuel pipe.

The officials froze in their tracks, wondering how to tell their former wartime leader to put his cigar out.

Oblivious to the drama of bated breaths around him, Churchill climbed the stairs and then dropped the cigar to the ground where it hit with showering sparks.

Hearts skipped a beat as an official quickly stamped out the stogie and everyone at London's Airport breathed easily once more.

Youthful Scientist Flees Soviet to West

VIENNA (AP) — A young Soviet scientist has defected to the West and adamantly refused his father's plea to return to Russia, Austrian police reported today.

Police officials identified the defector as Nikolai Ivanovich Sereda, 24, a technical expert and member of the provincial academy of science at Kiev. He has left Austria in the meantime and now is reported to be in West Germany.

Sereda defected several weeks ago during a tourist trip to Austria.

The officials said the dramatic meeting between father and son—the elder Sereda is a Soviet professor—occurred at the Kagan refugee camp here after Austrian authorities, in accordance with diplomatic cus-out of Tempelhof airport. They held aloft two banners—one said "Hurrah, the Savior Is Here" and the other said "Too Late."

It was Adenauer's first visit to West Berlin since the Communists on Aug. 13 closed the border between the two halves of the city to halt the flow of East German refugees into the Western zone.

Criticize Delay

Political opponents in West Berlin criticized the aged statesman for delaying his visit until the tension created by the border closing had begun to subside.

Hours before Adenauer's arrival, 3,000 British troops turned out in another display of Allied military readiness. A British spokesman called it a routine alert exercise to familiarize the men with their assignments in case of an emergency, and within four hours most of the troops had returned to their quarters.

Border Resident Jumps to Death

BERLIN (Reuters) — An East Berlin woman jumped to her death from the third-storey window of a house today in what appeared to be a desperate attempt to flee to the West.

The house was on the border in the divided city. The sidewalk where she crashed to her death was in West Berlin.

The woman, 39-year-old Ida Seilkraut, threw her identity papers and some belongings down to the street before jumping.

She died on the way to hospital.

Police said East German police nailed wooden boards across the front door of the house from which she jumped to prevent it being used as an escape route.

Jobless Still a Record, But Work Force Shows Gain

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada eased in July to 354,000 from 370,000 in mid-June, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported today. The mid-July figure of jobless represented 5.2 per cent of the labor force compared with five per cent a year earlier.

The relatively small decline of 16,000 "is typical of this time of year," the report said. About 190,000 teen-age job-seekers entered the labor market with the start of the school vacation period, an influx that was partly offset by the temporary withdrawal from the labor force of "a significant number" of married women.

British delegates have expressed their views privately to the 32 sponsors of a bid for "immediate negotiations" between France and Tunisia aimed at total French military withdrawal from Tunisian territory. The sponsors are 31 members of the Afro-Asian bloc plus Yugoslavia.

Formal amendments have not been offered to the resolution which was tabled Monday, first day of the assembly's special session on the Bizerte crisis.

Britain and the U.S. both are expected to abstain if the resolution goes to a vote unchanged. The Americans were understood not to be backing any move to amend the draft.

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — The Swedish government has decided not to follow the lead of Britain and Denmark in seeking membership in the European Common Market, Premier Tage Erlander said here today.

Police said East German police nailed wooden boards across the front door of the house from which she jumped to prevent it being used as an escape route.

SAANICH GOES ALONG WITH CIDC

Douglas Parking Ban Backed

Approval of parking ban on north Douglas Street was given by Saanich council Monday, clearing the way for provincial government beautification of the city's "front gate."

Previously the reeve and some council members had expressed opposition to the no-parking plan, stating that it was unnecessary.

The approval falls in with city council's consent to ban parking on Douglas north from Fountain Circle to Tolmie, thus completing pre-requisites asked by Capital Improvement District Commission.

The commission offered to improve boulevards and plant trees and shrubs along the 1½-mile stretch, provided parking was eliminated by July 1, 1962.

A petition from merchants opposed any hardship to them, but approved the idea of beautification.

Coun. Stanley Murphy, one of the proponents, remarked, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever. We either get this or we get the bright lights, the gasoline stations and the dive and dance places of Seattle and Vancouver."

He said "We would be completely unreasonable to refuse this offer to beautify," and suggested if the parking ban seemed unreasonable, then it could be rescinded later.

REEVE CHATTERTON . . .

"time will come."

COUN. MURPHY . . .

"If we should kill this one, I don't think they'll consider us again for some time."

There are rumors of further beautification jobs, he said.

NIGERIA SEEKS TO END U.K. DEFENCE TREATY

LAGOS (Reuters) — A conference representing all shades of opinion in Nigeria recommended Monday that the defence treaty between this West African nation and Britain be abrogated.

The All-Nigeria People's Conference passed a unanimous recommendation to this effect during a closed plenary session.

The treaty, which went into effect when Nigeria attained independence from Britain in October, 1960, is reciprocal. Britain provides training facilities for members of the Nigerian armed forces in Britain, and Nigeria provides certain facilities for Britain on Nigerian airfields.

Leftist Wins Guiana Election

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — Cheddi Jagan, a Marxist admirer of Fidel Castro promising a foreign policy of active neutralism, was returned to power for four more years today in Britain's only South American colony.

Returns from Monday's general election gave Jagan's Communist-leaning People's Progressive Party 19 of the 35 seats in the new legislature, and at least two of the five unreported constituencies were expected to be added to the 43-year-old East Indian dentist's majority.

The Negro-dominated People's National Congress led by Forbes Burnham won nine seats and Peter d'Aguilar's Conservative, anti-Communist United Force won two.

Britain ousted a government headed by Jagan in 1953 charging that he was planning to establish a Communist beachhead on South America's north coast flanking the Panama Canal. In elections in 1957 the PPP won nine of the 14 legislative council seats and Jagan became minister of industry, a post equivalent to premier, under British governor Sir Ralph Grey.

Jagan was expected to come to Georgetown today from his inland home district to accept Grey's invitation to become British Guiana's first premier in name as well as fact.

Bennett Says Tax Seizure 'Motive'

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Monday his Social Credit government had to expropriate the B.C. Electric because the federal government refused to rectify the unfair situation whereby it collected a corporation tax of 50 per cent on all the company's profits.

The vacationing premier said: "This was putting our province at an unfair advantage in relation to most of the other provinces, where power distribution is publicly owned.

"Our ability to attract new industry was hampered because power costs are cheaper in these other provinces since they don't have to pay this tax to Ottawa."

Premier Bennett described as "very fair" his government's offer of $179,000,000 to the B.C. Power Corporation, a holding company, which figures out at a price of $38 a share.

He said the offer corresponds to the "book value" of its capital investment in B.C. Electric.

The premier said the government also had made a very good offer to the holders of preferred shares. They were worth $104,000,000.

He said it would take "another week or two" to issue these bonds, but "I am confident, as premier and minister of finance, that when these bonds come on the market their price will be at least equal to the value of the preferred shares before expropriation."

CHINA LOANS GHANA FUNDS

E. C. Warren, 3290 Douglas, a businessman himself, appeared on behalf of merchants and property owners.

He said the street is adequate to carry the traffic load and there is no need for off-street parking. The only blockages occur at the intersection of Burnside and Fountain Circle, both in the city.

Besides, many places have no means of creating off-street parking, having no land for the purpose.

"We feel we are entitled to the same protection the council has shown it is prepared to give the Town and Country shopping centre," he said, referring to opposition against provincial highways signs banning left turns from the centre onto Douglas.

"We are just as keen to see beautification as you gentlemen. But we don't see the necessity for off-street parking in the foreseeable future," Mr. Warren said.

Coun. Leslie Passmore said he was told by the engineer there is no need for off-street parking, and voted against the ban.

He was followed by Coun. Geoffrey Cook, who said he could see no correlation between the parking ban and beautification.

More U.K. Race Riots

MIDDLESBROUGH, Eng. (Reuters) — Colored and white children played together amid broken bottles and smashed-window panes today in Cannon Street, centre of a third night of racial violence in this northern industrial city.

Another 11 persons, including two women, were to appear in court to answer for their part in Monday night's disturbances.

Three policemen and several rioters were taken to hospital after police tried to disperse a crowd of 1,000 whites gathered in the slum, inhabited by Pakistanis, Arabs, Africans and a few East Indians.

Beer bottles and bricks were hurled at the policemen.

The rioting came after an 18-year-old white was stabbed to death Friday night and an Arab was charged with murder.

Glitter at Yellowknife

THOUGH APPARENTLY HE does not intend to call an election this year—a hard winter of unemployment being too close for electoral comfort—Mr. Diefenbaker is taking no vacation from politics, though surely he must be very tired after the longest parliamentary session in history.

While his lieutenants and chief opponents are enjoying holidays which they well deserve, the indefatigable Prime Minister constantly appears in remote places to meet the voters, shake their hands, praise the record of his government and promise still greater things for the future.

Among these promises one in particular is remarkable. Speaking at Yellowknife, in the high north of his original vision, Mr. Diefenbaker announced that the government would pay a subsidy of $2,000 a year to any team of two prospectors who will spend 60 days searching for minerals.

Since not many prospectors are likely to take advantage of this offer, it may not cost the public treasury any large amount but it is extraordinarily generous just the same. What other group of workers in Canada can hope to be subsidized on this scale by the state, for a brief working period of two months?

More significant, what does this largess in one field of work imply in others?

Hurrying the Process

ARSON AND VIOLENCE continue in Northern Rhodesia, as the native population demonstrates its dislike for the constitution recently adopted. The election campaign in Nyasaland is writing its story of violence which is expected to increase.

Southern Rhodesia has just completed a referendum which will result in Africans taking seats in the Assembly for the first time—15 of them, in a house of 65. But this reform, and some others, will not take effect for another 15 months, according to Prime Minister Eric Whitehead. There is speculation that this will prove too slow a pace for Negroes impatient to take part in the government of the country.

Thus all three components of the Central African Federation are experiencing unrest, and apparently with more in store.

The problem stems from two basic drives: the whites-versus-blacks struggle for control of government; and the struggle of those who wish to see improvement made quickly against those, particularly the whites, who would like to delay it as long as possible. These movements, of course, are merely a part of the "wind of change" which is sweeping through all the African continent.

It will be noted, however, that the problem in the Central African Federation does not run into the dead-end situation found in South Africa. In the latter country the white minority has full control of the government and is determined to keep it at any cost, at the expense of Negro enfranchisement and economic freedom. In the former British colonies, farther north, however, there is an attempt to meet the needs of the twentieth century, and the problem is one more of pace than of policy.

The strong urge for self-government and independence among the under-developed countries, a phenomenon of the post-war years, has matured very swiftly. The native peoples seek to accomplish within a matter of months or years what took decades or centuries for many European nations to achieve. But self-government is not an thing to be learned overnight; much of its strength lies in precedent, tradition, experience and, particularly, education.

The native populations cannot be blamed for their impatience. They see the other countries of the world enjoying what they have until now been denied. Much of the blame must fall on the colonial powers, who through the many years of their imperial rule could have prepared the native populations much better for eventual independence.

But the "wind of change" blew up very suddenly. Some powers, such as Britain, were partially ready for it. Some, like Belgium in the Congo, had neglected any practical preparation. In the latter ex-colonies, therefore, the violence and the chaos have been all the greater.

Time, and the willingness of others to help, must ease and eventually solve the problems. But the interim is dangerous, not only for the new countries directly concerned but for the world at large which could find in any one of the local troubles the seeds of a larger conflict.

And in South Africa, of course, it seems to be a matter of listening to the time bomb tick.

Let It Be for Us

IT IS SCARCELY TO BE thought that the civic committee charged with studying proposals for an appropriate centennial project will come up with an idea acceptable to everyone. Victoria simply does not operate in that way. But there are certain basic principles which should guide the committee in its choice and thereby lead to as wide approval as possible.

The centennial project should be something the city needs, it should be a permanent improvement, it should cater to as large a proportion of the population as is feasible, it should be an "improvement" in the sense that it will improve the educational, cultural or recreational facilities of the city and provide a better life for the people here—and it should be for us, not just a lure for visitors to come here and spend money.

These are wide requirements, but they are essential, and any plan which meets them in large degree should find popular favor even though some alternative proposals may be almost as good.

Ultimatum on Car Exhausts

IN WHAT MAY HAVE AN important influence on urban society throughout the continent, Mr. Abraham A. Ribicoff, United States secretary of health, education and welfare, has delivered a form of ultimatum to the automobile industry.

He tells it to provide exhaust control devices as standard equipment on 1964 automobiles or face the prospect of legislation demanding such equipment.

This is a move by the secretary to reduce air pollution caused by gasoline fumes in some cities. The industry has been conducting research on the problem for some time, thinks it may be progressing toward a solution but asks more time to carry out its work.

Again, "Mr. Khrushchev said that Soviet workers would go on to the 'six-hour day' by 1964. This consummation is now promised 'within the present decade.' And, in connection with working hours, it is worth pointing out that by a six-hour day Mr. Khrushchev means a six-hour day for a six-day week."

Most people, I imagine, believe that the Soviet Union has for a long time offered free medical care from the cradle to the grave and free secondary education for all for a long time past. This is not so.

The relevant paragraph in the new Program states: "In the next decade compulsory secondary general and polytechnical 11-year education is to be introduced for all children of school age. In the subsequent decade, i.e. by 1981, everyone will receive a complete secondary education."

It is generally believed, also, that the Soviet Union leads the world when it comes to holidays, so much has been made about holiday homes for workers.

But this is what the Program has to say: "Gradually the minimum of leave for all industrial, professional and office workers will increase to three weeks and subsequently to a month. Paid holidays will gradually be extended to kolkhoz members."

No term is set on this. Kolkhoz members, the workers on the collective farms, who make up nearly half of the population of the Soviet Union, have so far never had paid holidays. Nor do they qualify for the main existing social services. This is a point that may surprise the Western agricultural worker.

The Program makes this tacit admission: "Sickness and temporary disability grants and old-age pensions will be extended to kolkhoz members."

The drafters of the Program are very proud of this prospect of the future. They seem to have no idea at all of what goes on in other parts of the world. Thus they can state, apparently in all sincerity: "The Socialist state is the only state which undertakes to protect and continuously improve the health of the whole population... In addition to the existing free medical services (i.e. free medical treatment in clinics) accommodation in sanatoria and the dispensing of medicines will also be free."

Another revealing little promise: "Good shopping facilities will be arranged throughout the country."

This is not an attempt to deny the progress made in the Soviet Union in recent years, which has been striking. But we need to see this progress in perspective. The new Party Program has no perspective at all.

On the one hand, nobody reading it would guess from a single phrase the appalling conditions which still obtain throughout the country up to 35 years after the revolution, and from which the people have lately been allowed to emerge.

On the other hand, there is nowhere the least indication of the real achievements of the regime, as distinct from the phoney ones, or the reasonable promises, as distinct from the nonsensical ones.

Wide Differences

It is a queer hotch-potch of a document, repetitive, chaotically organized and, far from being businesslike and streamlined in the Vostok manner, remarkable also for wide differences of tones and approach to different subjects.

Thus the parts dealing with the development of industry, heavy and light, are crisp, matter-of-fact and relatively lucid. Here the planners know where they are.

Industrial output, they say, will be up 150 per cent in 10 years, which means exceeding the present level of American production, and by 500 per cent in 20 years. The emphasis here is all on electrification, automation and the construction of new industrial complexes.

Steel the Russians do not have to worry about any more: the draft Program says that 250 million tons of steel could be produced in 20 years' time, and no doubt this is true; but it is unlikely, to say the least; and for purely common sense reasons, that this figure will be realized.

The heavy consumers of steel, the armed forces and heavy industry are already well provided for, and with the emphasis of production being switched from heavy industry to light industry, the demand for increased steel production will not continue at anything like its past rate.

Ridiculous Tone

In short, the Russians are happy about basic industry, and have lately been content with a general directive. When it comes to agriculture the tone is very different. Here the crisp directives take on an air of the ridiculous:

"The aggregate grain crops will more than double in 20 years, and their yield will also be doubled." "Labor productivity will increase 150 per cent in 10 years, by 500-600 per cent in 20 years." And so on.

Even the planners seem to feel that these curt commands to nature and the eternal peasant may not in themselves be enough. Suddenly they fall to arguing, exhorting, haranguing.

That part of the Program devoted to food production—and it is a very large part—is not a directive, at all; it is, rather, confused and agonized thinking aloud, an appeal to the peasants to make themselves worthy citizens of the future, so that the differences between town and countryside may dwindle to nothing. There is also a long, involved defensive argument in favor of present policies above all for clinging to the institution of the Kolkhoz which really has no place in the truly socialist society, which breeds inefficiency, and which falls between the two stools of private enterprise and truly communal effort.

Here there is nothing at all for the future but a pious hope. One day the government may see its way to efficient organization of agriculture, which will also bring the peasant inside the pale of a socialist or a Communist society; but that day is not yet.

Industrial output, they say, will be up 150 per cent in 10 years, which means exceeding the present level of American production, and by 500 per cent in 20 years. The emphasis here is all on electors—through a modern high-rise colliery, from one of the $5.50 seats on the floor of the Arena, I think we need an auditorium.

I felt quite sick when I was told that a little friend of mine, a polio victim in a wheelchair, had not been able to see the dancing at all. Although she had paid $5.50 for her ticket, her chair was shoved to the back, away from the stage, and the people in front of her who stood up, the better to see, blocked her view.

Thank heaven someone with vision sawed two of Victoria's greatest attractions recently—the cluster lights and hanging flower baskets.

Let us hope that if any big undertaking really materializes the advice of such imaginative people will be sought.

With some of the hilarious projects of the past few years in mind I tremble to think of what could happen in the future, with some inappropriate memorial raised and the Arena still our best centre of culture.

From Our Files

Aug. 22, 1901 — Vienna: Professor Edward Suess today declared that there should be a common defence of the central European states against American trusts, which he termed "more dangerous than battleships."

At Butchart Gardens it was a case of excellent organization. The interpreters there would have been glad to help the reporters interview the Russians if they had only been asked.

AUGUST 22, 1921 — Aldermen said today that if Saamich remained adamant in its plan to tax the city property at Elk Lake, there would be no recourse but to sell it.

DISGRUNTLED.

There was a by-election in Bristol, South East, as a result of Wedgwood Benn's elevation. But Wedgwood Benn stood again and beat his opponent, Mr. Malcolm St. Clair, by a thumping 13,044 votes—even though everyone knew Wedgwood Benn was not eligible to take his seat in the Commons.

The Election Court, attached to the High Court, then pronounced that the victor could not take his seat and that the defeated Mr. St. Clair was the member for Bristol, South East.

Wedgwood Benn's arguments are obvious: The hereditary principle has no place in a modern democracy. The whole business is a medieval hang-over. Bristol is entitled to choose its own candidate. Why should a father's success be visited so painfully on his son?

The opposition case is less definable. Why change what has worked for centuries? Wedgwood Benn is an ambitious and selfish man wanting to overthrow a system for his own benefit. Anyway, the situation is so complicated that it is best left to a complete reform of the House of Lords.

And, curiously, nobody, not even the Labor Party, is really anxious to tackle this.

(London Observer Service)

Supporters of Social Credit in B.C. have had hitherto complete trust in their upholding private enterprise, working in co-operation with them. Now the citizens must bear all the risks and costs of power development.

REPORTING

Ottawa—What scientists call "pure research" is the quest of knowledge for its own sake. It is search for physical truths, not for the purpose of building a better mouse-trap, but simply to add to the sum total of human understanding of the universe.

This was the kind of research to which Dr. Michail Klochko devoted his life. He is a specialist in physical and inorganic chemistry. Unfortunately for his career, this is not a field which contributes much to the Soviet government's political and economic objectives, so he was handicapped by insufficient funds for his work.

But despite official disinterest, he accomplished a great deal. Much of it remained unpublished and unknown to the scientific world—again, because of official disinterest, and also, he suggests, because he offended the Soviet Academy of Science by daring to criticize the academicians for distortion of history.

At age 59, Dr. Klochko abandoned his homeland, his substantial position in Soviet science, his lifelong friends and environment and sought political asylum in this country.

He did this not for personal profit, but because he concluded that defection was the only way he could make results of his life's work available to humanity. In Russia, he realized, it would be "wasted"—buried and forgotten. So he chose to betray his country and keep his faith with mankind.

Mikhail Klochko does not look like a hero. He's a sharp-featured, somewhat mousy-looking little man; shy and self-effacing, wanting nothing more than to continue his work in the freedom that the West offers him and Communism denied him. But his defection in the cause of the welfare of humanity was an act of the highest courage. He deserves well of Canada, of the West, of all mankind, including the Russian people.

Russia has no monopoly on "pure" scientists who feel disgruntled because their brethren in the field of "applied" science are more honored and affluent. The better-mousetraps boys have the better of it in Canada too.

But no authority in Canada would dream of preventing a pure scientist from publishing the results of his work. No Canadian government would dream of telling a scientist what line of research he must pursue and what he must forego or ignore. No Canadian government would cut off its scientists from the rest of the world, as Klochko claims he was cut off—not knowing what was being thought and written and said on our side of the Iron Curtain.

These differences are the differences between intellectual freedom, which we in the western democracies have in full, and the policing and regimentation of minds that is perhaps the most appalling domestic aspect of the Communist dictatorship.

This is possibly what Dr. Klochko had in mind when he said, "It is the lack of human dignity in the U.S.S.R. which hurts most." Where the human mind and spirit are confined to a narrow track by ideological conviction or authoritarian constraint, their reason for being is perverted, to humanity's loss. Dr. Klochko had the courage, and after six years the opportunity, to rebel against this intellectual peonage.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

The Name Game

WASHINGTON (UPI) — We have been playing a little game at our house called "naming the baby." I call it a game although it is more like an argument.

Any number can play, and occasionally do, but this is essentially a contest, or clash of wills, between my wife and me. We are what might be described as the "team captains."

In order to play, it is necessary for the participants to have deeply-rooted, and sharply-divided, opinions as to what constitutes a fitting name for an infant, sex as yet unknown.

Possibly because my parents tagged me with what is generally regarded as a nickname, I believe strongly in giving children distinguished, or distinctive or at least poly-syllabic names.

Two names that I have long admired belong to Outerbridge Horsey, a state department employee, and Stringfellow Barr, a professor. In fact, I once resolved that if I ever had a son I would name him Outerbridge Stringfellow.

This philosophy of nomenclature conflicts, putting it mildly, with that held by my wife, who is a firm advocate of family names or naming children for a relative.

Any relative, hers or mine, who has managed to stay out of the penitentiary is, in her view, worthy of this honor.

Failure's Lesson Brings Success

It is an established fact that gardeners are prone to fill their garden notebooks with their successes, and to omit the details of their failures.

We are elated when a plant succeeds, but the very fact that it likes both the garden and the gardener indicates that success should be easy to repeat.

Failures are just as easy to repeat, but that is not the gardener's aim. The plants which show an aversion to the conditions we offer are the ones we need to know more about in order to have success.

Lions Won't Talk About 'Big Deal'

VANCOUVER — A team that hadn't beaten anybody played a team that hadn't beaten somebody. Neither team won.

That was the story at Empire Stadium Monday. It reveals that B.C. Lions and Montreal Alouettes heaved and puffed and grunted to a 7-7 football draw. It doesn't reveal that the Lions should have won.

The margin could have been one point. Or two or three or nine.

Wayne Robinson, the B.C. coach, solemnly admitted after the contest that B.C.'s choice of plays on three occasions in the second half cost the Lions victory.

Hindsight is cheaper than foresight, Robinson said. "But if we could have those three plays over we'd have the points and Montreal wouldn't have tied us."

What about "those plays?" Well, Fignewton, it's this way.

After the first quarter when all the scoring was done, both sides took turns going nowhere in particular. They hopped back and forth across the centre of the field, ran an occasional bright play and then followed it with manoeuvres that made Simple Simon look like an intellectual.

After the halftime breather, both clubs returned to the field (which proved their courage beyond doubt).

Gamble Didn't Pay Off for Lions

Lions slithered and slipped down to the Montreal 12-yard line. They had the ball with third down and two yards to go. Remember the ball game is close, tighter than a Scots purse. Do the Lions try for a field goal and three points? No, that is not what they did. They gave the ball to Willie Fleming. And you know what happened to Willie? He took a few giant strides to his left and stopped. He did not stop on his own. Half a dozen Montrealers, weighing collectively about 1,300 pounds, helped him by falling on top of him.

When they finally extricated the meat from the lamb and found the ball, it was given to Montreal, who proceeded to prop it up, temporarily out of danger.

Mr. Robinson did not spit out his reply when he asked if the decision to run rather than to kick was his or that of his quarterback Jim Walden.

"I can't remember," Robinson said. "I'm not sure."

Charitably, it could be said that the coach was merely trying to protect Walden from criticism. Factually, it is apparent that Walden did call for running plays. It was also apparent that Robinson could have overruled Walden simply by sending in place-kicking specialist George Grant.

Simply speaking, Robinson gambled that the Lions would break out like measles, scattering Alouettes all over the landscape. The dice came up wrong for him.

By declining the almost certain single (safety) or triple (field goal) points, Robinson risked being thrown out of the Western Football Conference coaches' circle.

Point by Point, It All Adds Up . . .

You never see Eagle Keys at Edmonton or Bud Grant at Winnipeg throw away the opportunity to pick up a point here, three points there. They are like women shoppers who peruse food ads feverishly, and track down bargains with a fiendish delight. "A penny saved is a penny gained, etc."

Empire Stadium wasn't filled with outward signs of uneasiness by the majority of the 28,685 attendees, most of whom wear the Lions' hopes on their hearts. If anything, Lion supporters, well-trained over the past seven years, seemed more resigned than rowdy. They did not boo Mr. Robinson nor his henchmen.

Their passive acceptance of the Lions' fate may indicate that they do not really believe the Lions will do more than finish this year.

Let's look at the record. The 16-game season is one-quarter kaput. The Lions have one point. They have not had the pleasure of meeting Winnipeg, something they must do three times. They also have two more engagements with Edmonton, evenings which should do little for B.C. supporters, who suffer from heartburn at the mere mention of the Eskimos.

The Lions may sail into the Grey Cup game. But I do not suggest that you sell any of the children, your wife, or the house to wager on it.

The feeling here is that the Lions will need a fabulous quarterbacking job from Robert Schlordeit to lead them out of the forest. He was an onlooker Monday, nursing a pinched shoulder nerve.

Meadows Montreal's Big Casualty

Bookmakers, who rarely give anything away except their mothers-in-law, quoted the Lions as eight-point favorites over Montreal.

They had reason to. Pericles Moss, fondly known as "Meathead" by placid Quebecers for his trading of Sam Etcheverry, came into Vancouver with a furrowed brow and a depleted lineup.

Mr. Moss lost Ed Meadows, his best linesman, in Edmonton where the Eskimos only last Saturday had iced the Alouettes 33-0. Mr. Meadows lost a shoulder in Edmonton. (He didn't really "lose" it—it just fell off when somebody grabbed it and forgot to let go). Other Alouettes, mashed and bashed by the zestful Edmontonians, were not exactly "je ne plumerai" as the song goes.

But out they came anyway, led by Nelson Yarbrough (sounds like a Royal Navy admiral), a tall, 25-year-old colossus who runs, passes and directs adequately if not masterfully. He shot two very fleet backs, Dick Cohee and Don Clark, for large gains, found end Marv Luster a glue-fingered reliable target for his heaves.

Nobody—not even Perry Moss, however, seriously believes that Montreal is a good team. It may become a good team later, but today, no sir.

Many people have believed that the Lions were about ready to pop, to shed their mediocrity for even minor greatness. To do that they "must" win the ones they "should" win.

Montreal Monday was a team the Lions should have put in the side pocket. They did—and then fell in the same pocket. There's always tomorrow but there's not many tomorrows left for them.

VANCOUVER — Rumblings of a "big deal" Monday night came out of the British Columbia Lions' front office.

General manager Herb Capozzi acknowledged that "something was brewing," but refused to give out details.

Lions are mired in the Western Football Conference cellar with only a tie in four games.

Capozzi and club president Harry Spring were in constant consultation late last week. Both said the deal does not involve the coaching staff, or a rumor that ace halfback Willie Fleming, Lions' top scorer last season, is to be traded.

That newspaper tells who said "Go west, young man" and became famous because of that, undoubtedly was merely ordering some golf writer out on an assignment.

That was a few years back.

Same thing is being muttered in most newspapers in the U.S., but it is unlikely today's editors will become as famous as Horace Greeley. Everything is happening in the west.

Big-time amateur golf hit the Pacific Coast Monday with the start of the U.S. women's Amateur at Tacoma. Walker Cup matches follow at Seattle Sept. 1 and the men's Amateur takes over Pebble Beach, Calif., on Sept. 11.

That makes it all very pleasant for golfers ready to embark on vacation . . . and with no place to go.

And on the Walker Cup matches, Congressman Jack Westland of Everett is the non-playing captain of the U.S. side. Westland won the U.S. Amateur at the Seattle Golf Club, site of the forthcoming matches, back in 1952 at the record age of 47.

When asked to contribute a memento of his victory to the golf museum in New York, Jack sent a shooting stick (seas), which he said had helped him more than any club in his bag.

It has been 21 years since any defending titleholder has repeated in the U.S. Women's Amateur, but the betting around Seattle is that JoAnne Gunderson of suburban Kirkland will turn the trick this year.

Betty Jameson was the last repeater, winning in 1939 and 1940.

JoAnne survived the first hurdle Monday, but that's a tough field in Tacoma.

Bill Wakeham's name will be regarded quite carefully when the selectors get together to pick Canada's America's Cup team.

Hilles Pickens, who grinds out a sports publication for the Canadian public, was reported as saying that Wakeham's medal-winning score in the qualifying round was a record for the Canadian Amateur. The Gorge Vale swinger led the field with 67-69-136, or six under par.

Wakeham's 143 is the second best total ever recorded in the Canadian Junior before the affair was transformed from medal to match play in 1959.

George Knudson of Winnipeg holds the record, 140.

A seven-time winner of the Uplands club championship, Bob Morrison was never ahead until it counted Sunday—the last hole—in leading the field into the second round. Medalist Frank Scroggs, bidding for his sixth club crown, and defending champ Gord Pellow also advanced.

Morrison defeated Vic Lea, the only other former winner qualifying for match play, on the 18th.

Others advancing were Fred Ranson, Al Reside, Claude Heggie, John Hadfield and Pete Gillan.

At Gorge Vale, Mike Ott turned in his best competitive card ever—a one-under 71—in winning medal honors.

Ott, who said "everything went right," edged defending champ John Merriman by two blows. Wakeham was third with a 75.

SHORT CHIPS: Today's the day the PGA listens to Tommy Bolt's appeal from his suspension because of his locker room behavior last month. Behavior had nothing to do with Leo Derman's release from the Royal Jubilee . . . the Victoria District Golf Committee's secretary is feeling just fine after his recent session on the operating table . . . And just a date to remember: the Matsun Memorial tournament at Gorge Vale, Sept. 10.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy, the answer-giving boy, is now 10 years old, and those who submit the question he selects to answer will receive nationwide prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond's Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Johnny Agnoletti, age 10, of Farmington, Ill., for his question:

What makes iron rust?

The story of rust is an everyday story of atoms and molecules. The world and everything in it, we are told, is made from about 100 different elements and each element is made of atoms, all of one sort. Iron is an element made from iron atoms. Oxygen is an element made from atoms of oxygen. But when we look around we see, not merely 100 different elements, but countless thousands of different substances. Most of these substances are compounds of assorted elements in which atoms are tied up in little bundles called molecules. A speck of flaky red rust is made from molecules of iron atoms and oxygen atoms.

A compound of this sort is usually very, very different from its parent elements. Rust is very different from the metal iron and the gaseous oxygen from which it is made. Water also is a compound containing oxygen and moisture is necessary for the rusting recipe to begin. There is invisible moisture in the air, even over the driest deserts. Of course, there is more moisture in the air on a foggy, humid, or rainy day. This is why iron rusts faster in a damp climate or when buried in the damp ground.

The rusting recipe is called oxidation, which means that it uses oxygen. Fire also is called oxidation because it too is a chemical process using oxygen. The process by which your body turns food into energy also uses up oxygen and it too is called oxidation. You can see then that the burning process is not always a fast flaming fire. There are fast and slow forms of oxidation, slow burning and fast burning.

Rusting is one of the slow burning processes. It begins when iron comes in contact with moist air. Iron tends to be cooler than the air around it and this causes the moisture in the air to get into the finest of misty droplets.

HOLD THAT HOSE—Michael, 12, and Billy, 9, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ross of Marysville, Wash., tug at a garden hose which was drawn mysteriously down a hole in their yard. The boys spotted the hose as it was disappearing down the hole. Ten feet of hose went into the hole and no amount of pulling would bring it out. The family has no explanation for the occurrence. The hose later became unstuck without human pressure. (AP Wirephoto.)

'MISSING LINK' FOUND IN UNIVERSE START?

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—An East German astronomer apparently has found an important missing link in the story of the universe.

He detected what looked like a great cloud of dust just beyond the Milky Way, the galaxy or great family of billions of stars to which our sun belongs.

This dusty veil seems to be not just gas, but a smoke of heavier atoms also, ranging in size possibly from the particles in cigarette smoke to meteors. Out of this, new stars and planets could condense and come into being.

Astronomers have proposed that such dust clouds may exist in the vast distances between galaxies. This may be the first discovery of an individual cloud, and it is relatively near the earth.

Dr. Cugo Hoffmeister of Sonneberg in East Germany described his findings Monday to the International Astronomical Union meeting at the University of California.

By some theories, new stars and even great galaxies are constantly being formed out of clouds of gases and dust. Small dust clouds have been observed within the Milky Way and within other galaxies but never before in space between galaxies.

The dust cloud has an irregular shape, and is perhaps 25,000 light years, or some 15,000 trillion miles, wide. Its distance from us cannot be determined yet, but presumably it is some 2,000,000 light years away.

Dr. Hoffmeister first detected it in 1959 when working at the Boyden observatory near Bloemfontein, South Africa.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The girlies wiggled and waggled off the Latin Quarter stage recently and out trotted the young Reverend Lonnie Sattin.

Thirtyish and neatly tuxedoed, the good-looking young Negro minister sang several love songs—and one with a religious flavor.

I went backstage where the girlies were bouncing past—but neither the Rev. Lonnie nor I stared, because I was there to do an interview about a pastor.

But only a couple of weeks ago he delivered the sermon at the First Congregational

"I was ordained about eight years ago," Lonnie said.

"I was assistant pastor of the sixth largest Protestant congregation in the United States—the Faith Tabernacle Baptist Church in Philadelphia. I still have the right to be called 'Reverend.' Some churches though, don't believe that since I'm in show business, around with all these nudes, that I'm entitled to handle the sacraments."

Reverend Lonnie frowned. "But we have to make a whole big deal out of it."

"Do you try to reform any chorus girls or actors?" I asked.

"Rarely. I might speak to them about their destructive talk. Some are pessimistic and to them this is a lousy business and nobody is any so-and-so good." I try to get them to talk constructively."

The Rev. Lonnie's son of a pastor, the Rev. Charles L. Sattin of Philadelphia. He studied law at Temple U, then switched to religion, and sang with Earl (Fatha) Hines' Esquire All Stars in Los Angeles two years, then in Chicago two years at the Club De Lisa. He has been cast in the new Broadway show, "Kicks and Co."

Jayne Mansfield, here to do a "Candid Camera" TV'er, said at the Harwyn, "They told me to bring a bathing suit, so I brought ten-nine bikinis, and one other in case of censorship." They're dangling big film offers at Mitzl Gaynor since her great success at the Las Vegas Flamingo . . . Church of Mount Vernon, where he lives.

"And what do you say about the lightly dressed girls in your sermon?" I asked.

"I think this show is not the best thing for morals," he conceded, "but if we had a more religious approach to the body, it would make no difference whether a girl had clothes on or not."

Reverend Lonnie frowned. "But we have to make a whole big deal out of it."

"I never sermonize and I have no halo," he says.

"But I think a minister who has no sex appeal is out of business. Eighty-five per cent of church membership is female. I think they go to hear a dynamic, dominant, virile man, so there!"

"I dig the scene," the Rev. Lonnie Sattin added.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL: Producer Joe Pasternak's bringing Martha Raye back to the movies; she'll play Jimmy Durante's wife in "Jumbo" . . . Marilyn Monroe, who has an apt. in L.A., is shopping for a house, also, 'cause she'll be starting a film there in the fall. (She'll keep the N.Y. apt., too.) . . . ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The only thing some Hollywood couples seem to agree on is when to call a lawyer.

Hollywood films keep getting longer and longer, and some movie houses now offer orchestra seats, balcony seats and upper berths. That's right, brother.

Officials Answer Critics Of Standard School Design

School board requests for changes in standard school designs will be considered, an education department spokesman said today.

But he added that the department frowns on extensive use of glass anyway.

This was one of the main complaints of Courtenay school trustees, who said they were fed up with modern school architecture.

The government spokesman said that glass and glass brick were expensive building materials and that was one of the reasons "we're not too fussy about it."

He said all school building plans have to win departmental approval.

"If the trustees can justify them, they can make minor changes," he added.

A 30-man volunteer crew augmented the Langford volunteer fire department Monday in extinguishing a three-acre grass and bush fire behind 568 Latoria Road.

The men worked for over four hours before the last smouldering patches were finally doused.

Building Application Refused

An application by B.C. Telephone Co. to erect a material and service centre at McKenzie and Quadra was rejected Monday by Saanich council because it interferes with plans for an industrial precinct.

Council refused an application to rezone the southwest corner to enable the telephone company to build an administration office, truck storage and servicing area, major materials storage, and repair shop.

The advisory planning commission recommended the step on grounds that it would produce fragmentary industrial development.

LIGHT INDUSTRY

The commission and council envision a light industrial zone that would include such projects on the west side of Douglas Street to Tennyson south of Boleskine.

B.C. Telephone already owns a pole yard in this area, but its property is not sufficient to allow the type of expansion required, according to spokesmen.

They told council they were projecting the Quadra site 20 years when considering it as the centre of operations, giving equal travelling time to all points on the Saanich Peninsula.

NEW ZONE — They also said the company did not wish to be considered in connection with a light industrial zone proposed by Dominion Construction on Trans-Canada Highway west of Burnside.

"We don't want to be the drawing card," remarked one official.

Reeve George Chatterton told the meeting Dominion Construction had made no decision with regard to the project, deciding for the present not to submit plans to council.

He learned in talks with the construction firm that the plans are not dead, however.

B.C. Telephone representatives, meanwhile, will meet further with council's planning committee to discuss urban renewal relating to the industrial area on Douglas Street.

SCHOOL BOARD

Castle Society Holds Tea

Society for the Preservation of Craigdarroch Castle Monday was given permission by Greater Victoria School Board to hold a tea on the castle's lawn.

The outdoor event will be held Saturday afternoon with a charge of $1.50 for participants.

A special committee will be set up by school officials to determine the best method of passing on a few practical civil defence measures to students as outlined in the CD booklet "Eleven Steps to Survival."

Medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy explained sight and hearing tests given students at schools.

She also told trustees the major role of school health physicians has changed from grappling with communicable diseases to helping handicapped and emotionally troubled students so they will improve their school work.

Some 106 students with speech difficulties received treatment during the last school year, speech therapist M. C. Crickmay reported.

Fifty of them have acquired normal speech and the others have shown marked improvement.

SIX-MONTH REPORT

Housing Leads B.C. Economy

Housing construction is showing a healthy pickup, but retail sales and manufacturing are down 4 per cent in B.C. so far this year.

Figures released today by the trade department show residential construction starts for the first six months of the year are up 18 per cent over 1960.

There were 4,023 homes under construction, compared with 3,420 at the end of June a year ago.

But the biggest home economic factors were more gloomy.

RETAIL SALES

Retail sales throughout the province declined from a six-month total of $659,403,000 in 1960 to $633,886,000 this year.

Value of manufacturing production dropped more than $26,000,000 to $620,427,000.

Export trade from Vancouver, however, picked up 20 per cent, while imports were down 10 per cent to the end of June.

The fishing industry has had a startling recovery from 1960's miserable catch, with 286,984,000 million pounds of fish landed compared with only 87,900,000 in 1960.

HUGE CATCH

Value of the catch is up 30 per cent to more than $10,000,000.

The employment picture is brighter than 1960, with 44,000 of a labor force totalling 544,000 out of work. Last June 30 there were 45,000 unemployed with 529,000.

There has been a good gain in natural gas production, up 25 per cent to 44,400,937,000 cubic feet this year, but the forest industry has shown a sharp cutback in the amount of timber scaled, down 15 per cent from the time in 1960.

TRAFFIC FINES

Allan Henry Cosh, Mesachie, $20, over 30.

Big Chief Hummingbird was all set to perform his famous Snake Dance in the grounds at Craigflower Manor Sunday afternoon and a crowd of 250 waited tensely for the ritual to begin.

But there was one thing missing—and that was the snake itself.

While the Chief was introducing his act, the three-foot reptile wriggled out of its wicker basket and slipped away for a quiet weekend.

Two loggers from Duncan then asked Chief Hummingbird to perform his celebrated Rain Dance, but the chief was afraid it might spoil the tourist season.

The last time he did this dance it rained for three weeks!

Victoria horticulturist Attilio Handy, a native of Padua, Italy, believes the Saanich Peninsula could be turned into winemaker's paradise.

"All we need," he said, "is a skilled vintner from Italy to show us how to get the finest bouquet out of our B.C. grapes."

The Growers' Wine Company of Victoria says it is doing this already. It markets grape wine and wine made from Vancouver Island loganberries and blackberries. The loganberry is now being marketed in Britain.

I hear that Vern Simpson of the Hudson's Bay Company was replenishing a cigarette machine aboard the B.C. government ferry Mv Sidney at Sidney when the vessel put quietly out to sea and took him over to the mainland.

The same thing happened recently to coffee machine vendor Lorne Lewis. What's happened to the "all aboard for shore" routine?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Vandals in the Victoria area have switched from car tops to trambolines.

A persistent knife-wielding hoodlum visited the Kart Track and Tramboline Court of Spookey Singh near Victoria West Park three nights in a row cutting a tramboline each time.

Little damage was done to one Saturday night but two were ruined Sunday and Monday nights with respective losses of $150 and $180.

In Esquimalt police court Monday:

Victor Ivan Kent, 607 Fairway, $15, over 30 and $15, no eyeglasses.

Joanne McGregor, 1201 Lyall, $25, no driver's licence. Elsie Hynds, 25A Jedburgh, 10 days, driving while suspended and $15, running a red light.

20 YEARS LEFT, SAYS CURATOR

Time Now to Buy Art

Victoria has about 20 years left in which to build its art gallery collections—or be squeezed out by demand and prices it could never afford.

This is the opinion of gallery curator Colin Graham, recently returned from a two-month holiday in which—aided by a Canada Council grant—he visited 25 public galleries and major art dealers in the east.

It was his first opportunity in 10 years to see any notable collections.

He brought back a number of recommendations for the expansion of local collections, and some good words for the works and facilities now owned by the people of Greater Victoria.

NEW GALLERIES

"We have perhaps 20 years to build up our collections here," he said, "the limitation being that galleries are springing up all over the world, particularly in Canada and the United States.

"With the world-wide increase in the numbers of people actually interested in the visual arts, two things happen: the demand for works constantly increases, and the prices go up.

"In 20 years there will be too much money chasing too few pictures and to catch up with the east we should be spending at least $50,000 a year."

This money could be put to great value in the purchase of good quality paintings which are as yet "unfashionable, therefore cheaper."

He saw a representative selection of the Imperial Collection of China, rescued by Chiang Kai-shek as the Nationalist armies retreated before the Communists to haven in Formosa.

Any one painting in the exhibit has a possible value of $500,000 and there are some 30,000 items in the entire collection, he said.

The combined gallery resources of Europe and America couldn't match them," he said.

"It was of particular value to me to see them because we are getting quite a collection of oriental art ourselves.

"We know that what has been set aside for us in wills is going to make quite a good collection.

"Our own collection of Tibetan art stands up well with that of the major collections in the U.S. and eastern Canada."

One definite thing to result from Mr. Graham's trip will be construction of display cases for the smaller items of art. He saw how other galleries handle these, without losing flexibility to suit different exhibits.

This is the 10th anniversary of the gallery on Moss Street, a period spent in building physical surroundings. Mr. Graham hopes the next 10 years may be spent in building collections, particularly old masters and Orientals.

An early start on Douglas Street beautification will help the winter works program in Victoria and Saanich, secretary A. W. Toone of Victoria Labor Council said today.

He commented on Saanich approval Monday of a Capital Improvement District Commission request to ban parking, final step needed before money is made available to municipalities to do the work.

The project should be proceeded with as soon as possible, not later than what would be practical to make a winter works project," Mr. Toone said.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Back-to-School Clothes For the Tots 'n' Tykes

By PENNY SAVER

Do you notice a certain crispness even in this warm August air? A certain tang in the early morning mist? Fall is just around the corner, and school doors will be opening in two weeks. It is nearing that school-shopping-spree time, and Penny has found a Victoria store with a fine selection of outfits for the gradester.

A row of charming muted plaid skirts, with full, unpressed pleats, was first to catch my eye. They are of a warm wool and cotton mixture, brushed to have a slightly shaggy texture.

Their soft texture and subdued jewel tones are set off with a plastic belt in tone, complete with a seemingly antique medallion. One especially attractive skirt was in deep violet and black plaid, another the useful blue and green combination.

Sizes seven to 14 are available, all priced at $3.95 each.

Bulky-knit sweaters that can 'dub' as jackets in early fall weather are ever popular. Same store is selling hi-bulk orlon sweaters, styled with a generous round collar and long, comfortably wide, sleeves, at $3.95 each.

These sweaters, regularly $4.95, come in white, red and soft pastel blue. Children's sizes 8 to 14 are offered.

Cotton drill or 'bush cloth' is the only fabric, apart from blue jeans, that can stand up sturdily to the wear and tear afforded by the young harum-scarum boy. Well-cut trousers, pre-shrunk, come in grey, green, blue, khaki and black. Sizes six to 10 are $3.95 a pair; from 11 to 16, $4.95 a pair.

If you would like to know where Penny did her shopping, give her a ring at EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If You're a Worry Wart, At Least Don't Frown!

If you have to worry, just worry, don't frown! You can worry without frowning.

So often we go through tough times, but in the end they turn out all right. If we cry and frown habitually during such times, we are left with lines and puffs after all is well.

If things do not turn out all right, we still are better off without the lines and puffs.

Folks so often damage not only their looks but their health with useless worry. Of course, worry is a healthful and natural part of every intelligent, normal individual's life. It is a part of not being satisfied with things as they are and moving on to better things. It is a part of self-preservation. It is a part of our love and concern for others. It is a part of our preparation for the future.

A certain amount of constructive worry is essential to happy existence and to success. I am not talking about that sort of worry, but the kind that gets on your back and stays there while you fret and fume and get indigestion and stiff joints, and do nothing about getting it off your back.

Most of the time, what we worry about isn't worth the price we pay in loss of health, loss of a youthful outlook, and added lines.

It seems to me that in difficult situations one simply must get "cutoffs" in order to survive. The only way an intelligent person can get cutoffs is to do all he can to solve the problem, or change the situation. When you've done everything that can be done, worry

Edinburgh's Royal Mile Must Be Walked to Be Seen and Remembered

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Iain F. Anderson, FRSGS, secretary of the Scottish Tourist Board, knows every inch of Scotland, from John o' Groats to the Rinns of Galloway. He's delved into its history; dug out its stories and he's written and had published thousands of words on his "air country".

Forbes You can understand then, that when he sat back in his chair and said: "To really see it, and to remember what you see, you must walk" — he meant it.

He was talking of Edinburgh's Royal Mile.

"Of course, there's a bus tour," he said hesitantly, "and you could take a taxi..." His crisp Edinburgh accent slowed to a pleading note.

I walked. The cobble stones, humped and uneven, bruised and hurt my feet; the roadway tilted down hill with every intention of making it difficult to do it at a stroll; my camera bag weighed a ton—but I walked.

When I reached the gateway to Holyrood Palace, I looked back up the hill to the Castle on the Rock. I thought of the Wynds and the Closes, narrow and dim, that led off at right angles the whole length of the Mile; the children I had seen under the archways and down the narrow cobbled alleyways—the history that had come to life for me at the doorsteps of soot-stained houses, and I knew I would always be glad I had taken Mr. Anderson's advice.

Before we started he explained that the Mile is divided into different parts — The Castle Esplanade, Castle Hill, Lawn Market, Parliament Square, High Street and Canongate.

CANON GAIT

"Not many people know that the last name was originally the Canon Gait," he told me.

"In the days when holy men walked" that part of the Mile from Holyroodhouse they did so with a queer waddling step, necessitated by their heavy robes and the rough cobblestones. Hence the Canon Gait.

"Like many another truth the words have been corrupted in our modern usage," he mourned.

We started our walk at the Esplanade and immediately saw a house at the top of a fortune by robbing graves at Castle Wynd North Steps, that and selling the bodies to the medical school."

We saw Playhouse Close, where the first live theatre was produced in Edinburgh and Lady Stairs Close, off Lawn-Market (her house is now a museum), where Robert Burns found lodgings when he first visited Edinburgh in 1786.

On either side of the street as we went down the ridge toward Holyroodhouse, we found the narrow Closes. They led into old courtyards where jumbies of narrow six and seven-storey houses are still being lived in. Outside stairs curves up along their fronts and iron balconies still jutted out from each floor.

CANON GAIT

"The Mercat Cross where Montrose was executed in 1650 stands in the middle of the street.

There's Deacon Brodie's Close. "He lived a double life back in those bawdy old days," Iain Anderson told me. "During the day he was a respected citizen. At night he turned thief. He went to the scaffold in the end but it took them a long time to catch up with him... some say he was the model for Robert Louis Stevenson's Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Buck and Hare lived in a Close not far away.

"They were the lads who conceived the idea of making silver in the outline of a heart, sometimes two hearts entwined, and with a crown on the top. Men gave these brooches to their sweethearts as love tokens. Later, when they were married and the babies arrived, the brooches were used as shawl pins."

Finally we came to Holyroodhouse, now the official residence of Her Majesty the Queen when in Edinburgh.

Down the years it has been in turn an abbey, a royal guest house, the home of Prince Charles Edward in 1745, the residence of Mary Queen of Scots and the setting for the murder of her secretary, Rizzio.

HER BATHHOUSE

Still standing near the entrance gate, and far from the palace today, is a turreted stone bathhouse that Mary Queen of Scots used.

In the gathering twilight it wasn't hard to visualize the beautiful queen coming quickly with her ladies to the little stone building. It wasn't hard to believe that a ripple of laughter floated out and that a tiny, white hand waved from the narrow window.

It wasn't hard to look back up the hill and to imagine the voice of John Knox thundering out—as it did for the six years of her reign—in denunciation of the queen's gay ways. It wasn't hard at all.

Wedding in St. Luke's Church

Ernest Bitterman was the best man and ushers were Ross Nursery and Donald Cole.

At a reception in St. Luke's parish hall, William Farmer proposed the toast to the bride. A telegram from London, England, was read, as well as a letter from Suva,

For travelling on honeymoon, the bride changed to a two-piece, white suit with green and white accessories.

The couple are making their home at 639 Battery Street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McDiarmid, 1021 Island Road, have announced the engagement of their eldest daughter, Sheila Joy, to Mr. Graham John Dallimore, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dallimore of Perth, Ont. ## Lace, Tulle and Satin In Lovely Nuptial Gown

Gown worn by Ann Marie Hamilton Granger for her marriage on Saturday to John David Herbert was in traditional style. Chantilly lace bodice had a scalloped neckline edged with seed pearls. Crinolined skirt of tulle over satin extended to a slight train.

Delicate French illusion veil clouded to finger-tip length from an orange blossom wreath which had been worn by the bride's mother and sisters on their wedding days. Bouquet was of gardenias and stephanotis.

The ceremony took place in Knox United Church, Vancouver. Dr. A. E. Whitehouse officiated. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. George G. Granger, of Vancouver, and Mrs. F. H. Herbert, 3907 Blenkinsop Road, Victoria, and the maid of honor was Miss Judy Jack and Miss Marilyn Smith. All carried sprays of pale pink gladioli.

Groom's brother, Fred H. Herbert, Penticton, was best man. Ushers were Robert Stuart and Douglas Stewart, both of Victoria.

Eldred Murphy proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in the Faculty Club at University of British Columbia.

The new Mrs. Herbert donned an ensemble of forest green shantung with beige accessories for a honeymoon trip by car to Oregon and California. The couple will live in Vancouver.

41 BUILDING SUPPLIES

Western
CEDAR Bevel
SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln-dried siding is the finest available — a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

THE LUMBER

Western red cedar lumber is noted for its exceptional durability, light weight and beautiful color, ranging from almost pure white of the narrow sapwood to reddish brown heartwood. It is very easily worked, is free from pitch, takes and holds stains, paints and enamels excellently, and is superior for gluing. Because of these qualities, Western red cedar is especially adaptable for use as bevel siding for quality homes.

DURABILITY

Western red cedar is one of the most durable species known. Its heartwood is highly resistant to decay, and can be counted on for long and worthy service where conditions favoring decay prevail.

WEATHERING CHARACTERISTICS

Left exposed without paint or other protective finishes, Western red cedar weathers to an intriguing grey color having little or no sheen. It is one of the most stable species of lumber, having very little tendency to cup and pull loose from fastenings when exposed to the weather.

INSULATING QUALITIES

Western red cedar has the highest insulating value of all commonly used soft woods — another point in its favor as siding, and of particular importance when used as roof decking.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Adult Education Expansion Seen

Greater Victoria School Board's adult education program may be stepped up and expanded into a comprehensive community service.

Trustees indicated Monday night this would be their goal so that expensive school build-

CENTRALIA, Wash. (AP)—Burglars tunneled under a bank, blasted into a vault and made off with up to $4,000 in cash and an undetermined amount of other valuables during the weekend.

Trustees were told by night school principal Allan Batey that the community centre program operated in Flint, Mich., since depression days utilized the schools from 8 a.m. to late evening.

SCHOOL TAXES

He said municipal councils and recreational organizations also are pressing for greater use of school buildings after school hours.

Trustees were told by night school principal Allan Batey that the community centre program operated in Flint, Mich., since depression days utilized the schools from 8 a.m. to late evening.

WANTED

He said an increase in school taxes of $15 annually for higher-priced homes produced enough revenue to operate school buildings in the evenings for adult education, family recreation and community-wide social activities.

Mr. Batey said a similar program here could be financed through school taxes or donations from several wealthy citizens interested in contributing to community life.

Trustee R. H. Reeve said it was "criminal" to keep expensive school buildings shut up and unused for as much time as they are at present.

CAREER CAPPED

'Fighting Engineer' New Chief of Staff

OTTAWA (CP)—Tall, husky time when Canada is urgently reviewing her defences, Gen. Maj.-Gen. Geoffrey Walsh, a fighting engineer who likes to think no task is impossible, has been appointed Canada's new army chief.

Gen. Walsh, 52-year-old general officer commanding Western Command, Edmonton, was promoted Monday to chief of the general staff, climaxing a distinguished military career.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, announcing the appointment, said Gen. Walsh will begin his new duties in Ottawa Oct. 1, succeeding Lt.-Gen. Samuel Findlay Clark.

On taking over his new post Gen. Walsh will be promoted to lieutenant-general.

Gen. Clark, 52-year-old Winnipeg native known through the ranks as "Flin," taken on a $20,000-a-year assignment as chairman of the National Capital Commission—the federal agency responsible for the long-term development of Canada's capital and surrounding district.

SAANICH COUNCIL NOTES

Mount Douglas Park Sought

A request to turn treed, undeveloped land near Mount Douglas High School into a park will be made by Saanich to B.C. Electric Co.

Council was told Monday the firm obtained the land originally as a substation site, but abandoned the idea due to opposition from residents.

The Conservation Council recommended the acquisition of the five acres between Wende and Cedar Hill Roads.

It would serve some 6,000 people in the area bounded by Cedar Hill, Mount Douglas Cross Road, Blenkinsop and Cedar Hill Crossroad.

Reeve George Chatterton and Coun. Leslie Passmore were named to a joint committee to study a proposed new South Vancouver Island Health Unit building.

They will study possible payment up to $25,000 on the estimated $135,000 total cost by Victoria Kinsmen Club.

Councillors recommended to next year's council a request asking the provincial government to aid reconstruction of Gorge Road as a second-class highway.

It was noted there is considerable erosion and general condition of the road is poor.

A three-day midway at Town and Country shopping centre was turned down by councillors who refused to grant a licence to West Coast United Shows, Kelowna.

"I think this is some business we could let the city have," Coun. Gregory Cook remarked.

Speed limit in the shopping centre was regulated at 15 miles an hour, and bicycles were made subject to provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act.

2 Die in Ice Box

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Two boys suffocated Sunday night in an abandoned ice box stored in the garage at their home.

Dead are James Ralph Waldrup, 11, and William Croy, his three and one-half-year-old nephew. Police found the youngsters almost seven hours after they were last seen. Apparently they crawled into the ice box while playing.

Film 'Gorilla' Dead

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Charles Gemora, 58, the man behind the costume in several gorilla films, died Saturday of a heart attack.

In 1941 he led Canadian troops ashore in the bloodless raid on Spitzbergen, 600 miles from the North Pole.

A major, commanding the 3rd Field Company of the Royal Canadian Engineers, he directed demolitions, including burning of the coal mines, dumping fuel into the sea and other measures to deny the base to the Germans.

Later, in Sicily, he won the Distinguished Service Order. He organized engineering work to keep thawing roads to the European front open day and night—a job involving thousands of men and hundreds of vehicles. He recalls he used to tell his men: "Think how it can be done—not why should it be done."

On return to North America, he organized the Alaska Highway system for Canada's takeover from the United States.

OLD INTERURBAN LINE TO SAVE VANCOUVER?

his solution

VANCOUVER (CP) — Highways Minister Gagliardi suggested today the Greater Vancouver's old Interurban Railway should be rebuilt as an 80-mile-an-hour commuter system to put an end to the city's traffic jams and parking problems.

The minister said in an interview that such a system could feed a train a minute into the downtown area of Vancouver from as far away as up the Fraser Valley as Chilliwack:

He suggested that re-establishment of the old electric rail line, started in 1891 but abandoned some years ago by the B.C. Electric, should be the subject of an express transit study by the B.C. Research Council.

The minister said the right-of-way and some of the old tracks into the Fraser Valley are still in existence.

"It sounds to me like the solution and I haven't been so wrong in the past, have I?" the minister said.

FARMS SPARED

Two Mills In Path Of Blaze

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A forest fire which has been burning for a month southeast of here burst into frenzied activity late Monday night and launched a three-front attack on two small sawmill operations.

Fifteen miles from this B.C. city at Grove, the blaze is roaring over some 40,000 acres with undiminishing acceleration.

One arm raced between the Schlitz Brothers sawmill and the Frost Lake sawmill. Other fronts licked around either side of the area. In some places the blaze was only a few yards from bunkhouses and sawn lumber stacks.

The wind change which drove the blaze to the logging operations drove it away from four farms. It was rapidly approaching earlier.

A fleet of Avenger water bombers during the day drenched fires started by "devil winds"—winds created by the heat of fires which hurl flaming sparks into the air and carry them for more than a mile.

SKIES CLEAR

Ninety fires were raging in the giant northern forest district which covers a third of B.C.'s physical area. Skies during the day were clear of dense smoke that has plagued air fire-fighting operations. No measurable rain has been recorded since July 28.

Evacuation Of Gander Threatened

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Smallwood said today that women and children may have to be evacuated from the fire-threatened town of Gander.

Mr. Smallwood told a press conference that if the evacuation order is put into effect, women and children will be brought by train to St. John's and housed in vacant Pepperell Air Force Base.

Latest reports placed a fiercely-burning forest fire four miles from the town of 5,500.

The RCAF at Gander sent 140 airmen and 40 civilian employees to help firefighters. Officials appealed for more volunteers.

The fire crossed the Trans-Canada Highway Monday but died down during the night, giving RCMP a chance to escort hundreds of vehicles held up by roadblocks, to continue along the highway in convoy. The highway was blocked again today.

FRANCE DEFENDED

Adlai Scores Russ 'Freedoms'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United States today accused the Soviet Union of cynical suppression of freedoms while trying to picture the Western powers as supporters of colonialism.

The U.S. charge was made by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson at a special session of the UN General Assembly. He was replying to an attack by Soviet delegate Platon D. Morozov Monday on foreign-held military bases.

Stevenson called Morozov's attack "shameless" and said it should be ignored. He compared the record of the Soviet Union with that of France, which he said had freed numerous territories since the Second World War while the Russians were obliterating countries which resisted the presence of Soviet troops.

The U.S. delegate told the 99-nation assembly Soviet forces still were in Poland, Hungary, East Germany and other countries 16 years after the end of the war.

The cold war flare-up came during a debate on the French-Tunisian dispute. Stevenson

RUSSIAN REPLIES

Morozov immediately replied by accusing Stevenson of trying to distract world attention from the main issues. He said the Soviet delegation "repudiates all those attempts to besmirch the policy of the Soviet government."

Morozov asked Stevenson what should be the goal of the negotiations between France and Tunisia, if not the immediate withdrawal of French forces. He said this was the crux of the dispute and it had been passed over in silence by Stevenson.

Britain is reported to have encouraged back-stage efforts

THEIR SIDE

Both parties filed documentary evidence in court Monday.

Wenner-Gren wants to sell the land to Huntington Hartford.

Mrs. Roseliza Price says she has owned the property for 70 years.

She spent several hours in court testifying, assisted by her great grandson Tommy Robinson, a member of Nassau's last Olympic and British Empire Games teams.

Woman Fights Wengren Deal

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — A court ruling on a claim by a 100-year-old woman that has blocked a $14,000,000 land deal was postponed today until Wednesday.

Mrs. Roseliza Price, who reached her 100th birthday last Sunday, contends she owns a narrow strip of land bisecting the property from one side of the island to another.

Both parties filed documentary evidence in court Monday.

Wenner-Gren wants to sell the land to Huntington Hartford.

Mrs. Price says she has owned the property for 70 years.

She spent several hours in court testifying, assisted by her great grandson Tommy Robinson, a member of Nassau's last Olympic and British Empire Games teams.

SIX-MONTH REPORT

Housing Leads B.C. Economy

Housing construction is showing a healthy pickup, but retail sales and manufacturing are down 4 per cent in B.C. so far this year.

RN Officer Expresses Gratitude

HMS Londonderry slipped out of Esquimalt at 8 this morning bound for Vancouver, leaving behind warm thanks to Victorians for their hospitality.

Commodore J. E. L. Martin, Senior Naval Officer, West Indies, thanked the people of Victoria in a letter addressed to The Times today, saying:

"I would be grateful if you could publish my thanks to all the many people in Victoria who so kindly invited sailors from HMS Londonderry into their homes during our short visit."

"We will long remember our visit for the warm-hearted hospitality and friendliness which we have met on all sides. Everywhere we have been, people have been so kind to us, and we are sorry that our stay has been so short . . ."

"We will remember you all and your beautiful island with great affection."

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Herbert Cyril Dawson, 1151 Oxford, $35, minor no insurance.

Allan Henry Cosh, Mesachie, $20, over 30.

Barrie H. Neff, 551 View Royal, $10, no outside mirror contrary to driver's licence restriction and $5, no rear view mirror.

... HERE AND THERE . . . With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Big Chief Hummingbird was all set to perform his famous Snake Dance in the grounds at Craigflower Manor Sunday afternoon and a crowd of 250 waited tensely for the ritual to begin.

But there was one thing missing—and that was the snake itself.

While the Chief was introducing his act, the three-foot reptile wriggled out of its wicker basket and slipped away for a quiet weekend.

Two loggers from Duncan then asked Chief Hummingbird to perform his celebrated Rain Dance, but the chief was afraid it might spoil the tourist season.

The last time he did this dance it rained for three weeks!

Victoria horticulturist Attilio Randy, a native of Padua, Italy, believes the Saanich Peninsula could be turned into a winemaker's paradise.

"All we need," he said, "is a skilled vintner from Italy to show us how to get the finest bouquet out of our B.C. grapes."

The Growers' Wine Company of Victoria says it is doing this already. It markets grape wine and wine made from Vancouver Island loganberries and blackberries. The loganberry is now being marketed in Britain.

I hear that Vern Simpson of the Hudson's Bay Company was replenishing a cigarette machine aboard the B.C. government ferry Mv Sidney at Sidney when the vessel put quietly out to sea and took him over to the mainland.

The same thing happened recently to coffee machine vendor Lorne Lewis. What's happened to the "all aboard for shore" routine?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Vandals in the Victoria area have switched from car tops to trampolines.

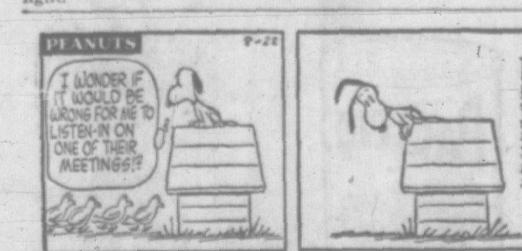

A persistent knife-wielding hoodlum visited the Kart Track and Trampoline Court of Spookey Singh near Victoria West Park three nights in a row cutting a trampoline each time.

Little damage was done to one Saturday night but two were ruined Sunday and Monday nights with respective losses of $150 and $180.

In Esquimalt police court Monday:

Victor Ivan Kent, 607 Fairway, $15, over 30 and $15, no eyeglasses.

Joanne M. Gregor, 1201 Lyall, $25, no driver's licence, Esie Hynds, 254 Jedburgh, 10 days, driving while suspended and $15, running a red light.

BUS BUSTED; SO'S LEG . . .

The employment picture is brighter than 1960, with 44,000 of a labor force totaling 544,000 out of work. Last June 30 there were 45,000 unemployed of 529,000.

There has been a good gain in natural gas production, up 25 per cent to 44,400,937,000 cubic feet this year, but the forest industry has shown a sharp cutback in the amount of timber scaled, down 15 per cent from the time in 1960.

This is the opinion of gallery curator Colin Graham, recently returned from a two-month holiday in which—aided by a Canada Council grant—he visited 25 public galleries and major art dealers in the east.

It was his first opportunity in 10 years to see any notable collections.

He brought back a number of recommendations for the expansion of local collections, and some good words for the works and facilities now owned by the people of Greater Victoria.

NEW GALLERIES

"We have perhaps 20 years to build up our collections here," he said, "the limitation being that galleries are springing up all over the world, particularly in Canada and the United States."

"With the world-wide increase in the numbers of people actually interested in the visual arts, two things happen: the demand for works constantly increases, and the prices go up."

"In 20 years there will be too much money chasing too few pictures and to catch up with the east we should be

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Jonquiere, New Glasgow left today, return 8 a.m. Saturday. Cape Breton returns Aug. 28.

An early start on Douglas Street beautification will help the winter works program in Victoria and Saanich, secretary A. W. Toone of Victoria Labor Council said today.

He commented on Saanich approval Monday of a Capital Improvement District Commission request to ban parking, final step needed before money is made available to municipalities to do the work.

The project should be proceeded with as soon as possible, not later than what would be practical to make a winter works project," Mr. Toone said.

They could ask for a government supervised strike vote in view of their acceptance of a majority conciliation board awarding pay increases.

Council has turned the report down and maintains its stand that the employee group should hold the line with police and firemen's unions.

Meeting Set For Workers In Oak Bay

Oak Bay municipal outside workers meet a week from tonight to decide on further action in their dispute with council over a 1961 wage and work contract.

They could ask for a government supervised strike vote in view of their acceptance of a majority conciliation board awarding pay increases.

Rev. Joseph Buchanan Bernardin, the American episcopal minister in Munich, conducted the service, following which the remains were cremated and later buried in the family plot in Cheadle cemetery, Cheshire, England.

Mr. Shaw was with the Canadian National Railways in Victoria for 39 years before his retirement in 1958.

Surviving are the widow, now residing in Campbell River; two sisters in England; and a niece and cousins in England.

There will be two performances of Jerry Gosley's Smile Show Saturday, at 6 and 9 p.m., in the Langham Court Theatre, marking conclusion of the nine-week run.

Greater Victoria transit services will change over to a new schedule and route system Monday. B.C. Electric announced today.

The revamping of the bus system will create service improvements to Victoria College and some new subdivisions, but over-all effect will be an 11 per cent reduction in the system's mileage.

The company said it will give wide distribution to the new timetable—detailing new routes, route numbers and running times—and accompanying maps.

SCHOOL POPULATION UP 1,000

Pupils Back in Two Weeks

About 23,000 pupils, approximately 1,000 more than last year, will crowd Greater Victoria schools when they open two weeks today.

School board officials said 820 teachers will man the class rooms, an increase of 25 from the previous staff level.

New elementary pupils will have to register on opening day, Sept. 5, but secondary school students who have moved into the district during the summer will be able to register in advance.

All junior and senior high schools will be open Aug. 28, 29 and 30 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. for the registrations.

On opening day, all elementary pupils will be expected to report to their schools at 9 a.m.

Grade 7 and 10 students will report at 9 a.m.; Grade 8 and 11 will report at 10 a.m.; and Grade 9 and 12 will report at 11 a.m.

101 Resolutions Facing Convention Of Municipalities

Greater Victoria delegates at this year's Union of B.C. Municipalities convention will be the busiest group at the Vernon meeting Sept. 27-29.

Eleven of the 101 resolutions proposed by municipalities from all over the province originated here.

This area will seek a wide number of improvements in civic conditions ranging from Oak Bay's call for return of a share of provincial sales tax, gasoline tax and car licence fees to municipalities to Victoria's request that powers of conciliation officers be limited.

Important resolutions from other areas that will be debated at the convention include demands that the province:

Give municipalities a share of the new provincial income

DRIVER DIES AFTER CRASH AT COURtenay

Joel Baker Jr., driver of a car which left the highway and slammed into a power pole near Courtenay Saturday afternoon, died in Comox General Hospital Monday night.

His father Joel Oscar Baker, of Vancouver, who was also in the car, was reported in fairly good condition in hospital.

SEPT. 18 START

Night School Courses Announced

Some 215 courses ranging from academic to recreational subjects will be offered this year by Greater Victoria school board's adult education division.

Last year's 4,500 night school enrolment is expected to be exceeded when registration is complete this fall.

Brochures outlining the courses will be distributed to various organizations and businesses in town. Direct information can be obtained by phoning EV 5-1411.

Fall term opens the week of Sept. 18 in academic courses and the week of Oct. 2 in the others.

Subjects available are listed under the following groupings: high school courses—languages; vocational and trade extension; commercial, crafts; homemaking; recreation; art; and 33 miscellaneous courses ranging from lectures on atomic energy to contract bridge.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Which city has more miles of subway tunnels, New York or London? A.J.P.

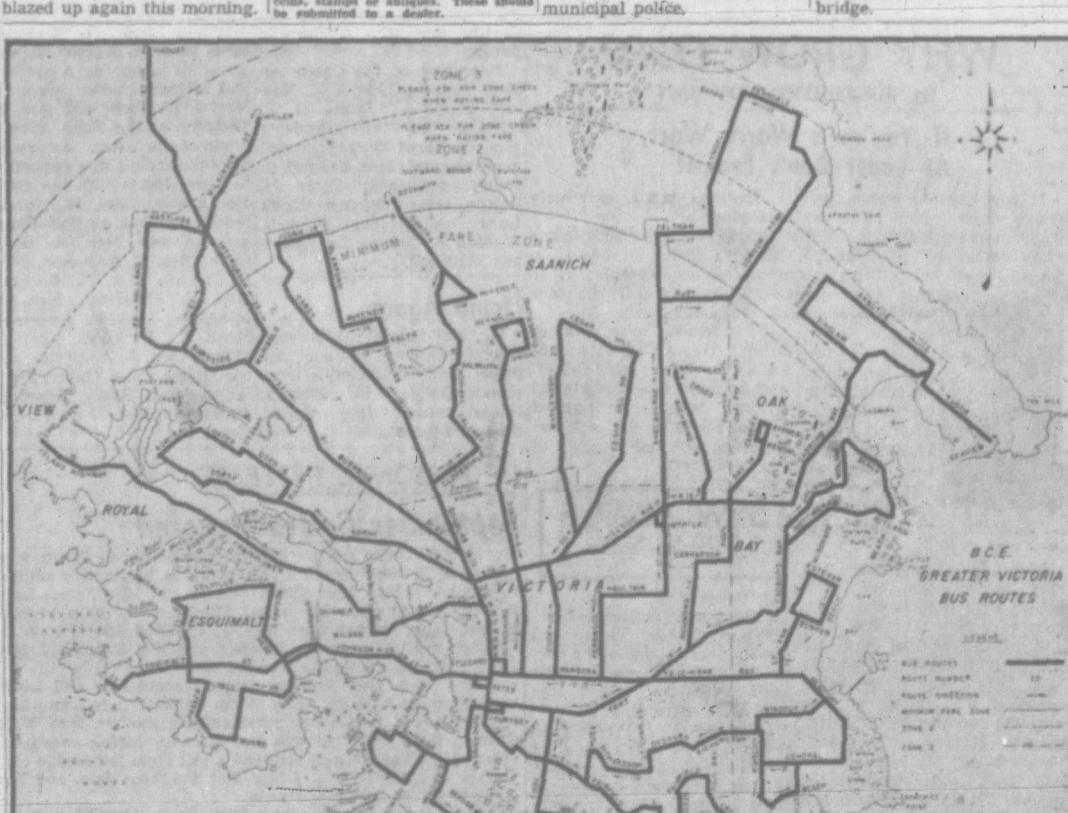

A. At last count, New York had more, with about 240 miles of underground tunnels. London has about 220 miles.

Q. What is an axolotl? A.E.N.

An axolotl is a larval salamander found in lakes in Mexico and some parts of the Rockies. It resembles a newt in shape, having a powerful tail, two pairs of weak limbs, and three pairs of simple external gills.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the query along to "Ask the Times," Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions are dealt with insofar as fact and not of general interest. The Times does not undertake to active in the presentation of answers will attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

COMPROMISE WITH MUNICIPALITIES

New Bus Schedules Start Monday

Greater Victoria transit services will change over to a new schedule and route system Monday. B.C. Electric announced today.

The revamping of the bus system will create service improvements to Victoria College and some new subdivisions, but over-all effect will be an 11 per cent reduction in the system's mileage.

The company said it will give wide distribution to the new timetable—detailing new routes, route numbers and running times—and accompanying maps.

Copies are available at BCE offices and places where electric light bills are paid.

The bus system overhaul was requested last April and has been under negotiation with the municipal councils since then.

Originally, a 14.5 per cent mileage reduction was sought by the company to offset partially annual operating losses of some $500,000.

Negotiations with the municipalities resulted in the compromise cutback.

East Berlin Cheers Greet Adenauer

(Times News Services)

BERLIN—Crowds of East Berliners cheered Konrad Adenauer today as the West German chancellor toured the barricaded border between East and West Berlin.

Communist loudspeaker trucks blasted attacks against Adenauer on two occasions but tense-faced "people's police" were unable to prevent excited East Berliners from gathering to wave at him.

A police cordon held back a large crowd of Communist-zone residents in the Brunnenstrasse, about 500 yards from the Brandenburg Gate, but the East Berliners recognized Adenauer's motorcade and began cheering and waving handkerchiefs.

The chancellor toured the sector border shortly after he arrived from Bonn with a promise that West Germany will use its "full political and oral power" to preserve the freedom of West Berliners in coming negotiations with Russia.

In the Potsdamer Platz, junction of the Soviet, U.S. and British sectors, Communist loudspeaker taunts referred to Adenauer as "Dear Konny" and said his "serious face" recalled the rages of Adolf Hitler.

At the Brandenburg Gate another truck played a Western hit tune as Adenauer drove up for a look at the closed crossing point. The truck boomed out an ironic welcome: "You come late, Mr. Chancellor, we have acted in the meantime."

About 200 yards behind the gate scores of the East Berliners—some armed with binoculars—gathered. Police and East German soldiers ordered them to move on but few left the scene.

The attorney-general said the first step might be to organize night patrols to prevent sneak attacks. He said he could not elaborate on what power and status such patrols might have.

The solicitor-general's office announced that Charles Edward Acheson, 25, would serve his life term at the Kingston, Ont., Penitentiary.

TUNISIA CHARGES SHOOTING BY FRANCE

ADLAI SCORES RUSSIAN 'FREEDOMS'

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States today accused the Soviet Union of cynical suppression of freedoms while trying to picture the Western powers as supporters of colonialism.

The U.S. charge was made by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson at a special session of the UN General Assembly. He was replying to an attack by Soviet delegate Platon D. Morozov Monday on foreign-held military bases.

Stevenson called Morozov's attack "shameless" and said it should be ignored. He compared the record of the Soviet Union with that of France, which he said had freed numerous territories since the Second World War while the Russians were obliterating countries which resisted the presence of Soviet troops.

The U.S. delegate told the 99-nation assembly Soviet forces still were in Poland, Hungary, East Germany and other countries 16 years after the end of the war.

The cold war flare-up came during a debate on the French-Tunisian dispute. Stevenson declared that the United States believes that the only way to a solution is through negotiations. He said it would not be useful to adopt a resolution which might prolong the stalemate.

RUSSIAN REPLIES

Morozov immediately replied by accusing Stevenson of trying to distract world attention from the main issues. He said the Soviet delegation "repudiates all those attempts to besmirch the policy of the Soviet government."

Morozov asked Stevenson what should be the goal of the negotiations between France and Tunisia, if not the immediate withdrawal of French forces. He said this was the crux of the dispute and it had been passed over in silence by Stevenson.

Immediately after the Red clampdown in Berlin, Adenauer said the West was considering massive counter-measures, including a possible embargo on all trade with the East.

When the Big Three failed to take up Adenauer's suggestions, large sections of the West German press criticized what they called Allied do-nothingness.

Then the Bonn government shifted its course and began to urge caution. Cabinet members said economic sanctions were out of the question. Defense Minister Franz Joseph Strauss spoke against a "strong man policy" toward Moscow.

The change came after some discreet Allied hints and a conference between Adenauer and Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov.

West Germans Cool Off After Early Berlin 'Flap'

By HANS NEUERBOURG

FRANKFURT (AP)—National feeling stirred up by the East German action of sealing off the Berlin border is slowly subsiding and West Germans are probing for a way out of the Berlin crisis.

Even Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, normally not one to change his mind swiftly, has considerably softened his approach.

There have been small, but significant, indications that certain influential quarters would favor a reappraisal of Bonn's policy toward the East.

I kin understand folks wantin' t' git out o' Vancouver at high speed, but whut w'd be th' rush t' git back in?

SITUATION CRITICAL

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (UPI)—Gander International Airport was forced to shut down its facilities today in order to permit "every available person" to fight a forest fire that moved to within a half-mile of the big air terminal.

An airport spokesman said that the fire was being contained before it breaks a half-mile from the airport. South-easterly winds ranging from 12 to 15 miles an hour and occasionally gusting to 20 miles an hour made the situation even more critical.

"It wasn't so much that the airport is in danger from the fire but that we needed every available person to help fight the fire," the spokesman said.

The official estimated that between 400 and 500 men at the base helped swell the number of fire fighters to about 2,000.

AIR LINES ADVISED

The official said that "fortunately the fuel reservoirs are not in any immediate danger because they are located about two miles away."

International Air Lines was advised earlier this afternoon to use alternate facilities.

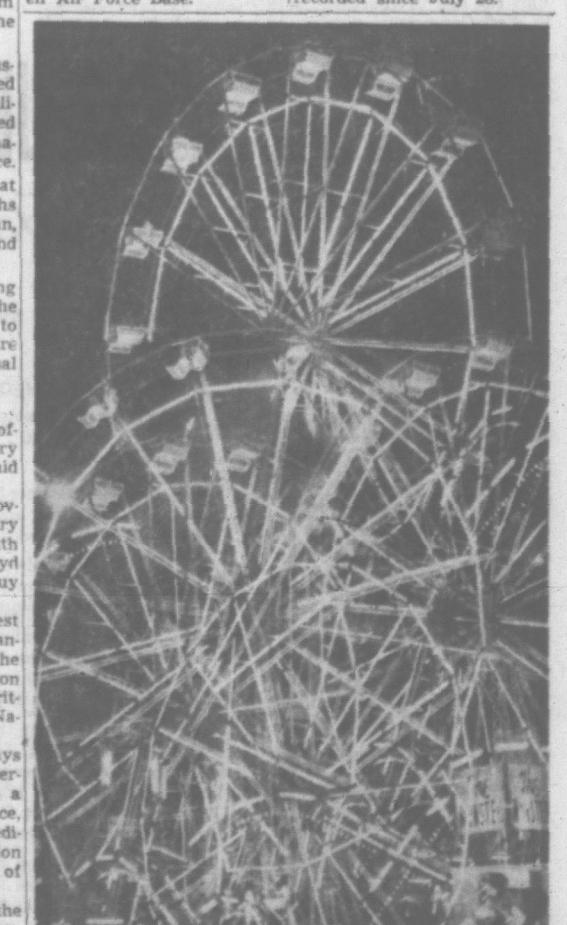

The airport official said the fire was burning on a split front five to eight miles wide. The fire was split in two sections as it moved around Dead Man's Pond three miles from the airport.

There was no short-range forecast of rain or change in the direction of wind which had been pushing the fire closer to the airport. The fire front still was four or five miles from the town of Gander.

A fleet of Avenger water bombers during the day drenched fires started by "devil winds"—winds created by the heat of fires which hurl flaming sparks into the air and carry them for more than a mile.

SKIES CLEAR

Ninety fires were raging in the giant northern forest district which covers a third of B.C.'s physical area. Skies during the day were clear of dense smoke that has plagued air fire-fighting operations. No measurable rain has been recorded since July 28.

$392,000 ART TREASURE STOLEN

LONDON (CP)—A Goya portrait of the Duke of Wellington was stolen from Britain's National Gallery today. The picture recently was bought for the nation for £140,000 ($392,000) amid a great controversy.

Scotland Yard said the picture vanished overnight. The trustees of the gallery called in Yard detectives first thing this morning.

The picture was bought at Sotheby's auction two months ago by Charles Wrightsman, New York oil magnate, and housed in vacant Pepperell Air Force Base.

An outcry developed among British art lovers at the thought that it might go to the United States. The picture was classified as a national treasure.

OFFERS TO SELL

Wrightsman immediately offered to sell it to the gallery for the £140,000 which he paid for it.

A campaign among art lovers to keep it in the country followed and early this month treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd announced Britain would buy it back.

The portrait is the best known of three which Francisco Goya painted of the Duke of Wellington, the "Iron Duke" who was one of Britain's great heroes of the Napoleonic wars.

The robbery came nine days after eight Cezanne masterpieces were snatched from a gallery in Aix-en-Provence, France. Speculation immediately arose that the London thief might be the work of the same gang.

Both the Cezanne and the Goya pictures are far too famous ever to be sold on an open market.

The rash of bigtime art robberies has baffled police in Europe and the United States. The loot in every case is so well known that it is unsaleable.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Back-to-School Clothes For the Tots 'n' Tykes

By PENNY SAVER

Do you notice a certain crispness even in this warm August air? A certain tang in the early morning mist? Fall is just around the corner, and school doors will be opening in two weeks. It is nearing that school-shopping-spree time, and Penny has found a Victoria store with a fine selection of outfits for the graduate.

A row of charming muted plaid skirts, with full, unpressed pleats, was first to catch my eye. They are of a warm wool and cotton mixture, brushed to have a slightly shaggy texture.

Their soft texture and subdued jewel tones are set off with a plastic belt in tone, complete with a seemingly antique medallion. One especially attractive skirt was in deep violet and black plaid, another the useful blue and green combination.

Sizes seven to 14 are available, all priced at $3.95 each.

Bulky-knit sweaters that can 'dub' as jackets in early fall weather are ever popular. Same store is selling hi-bulk orlon sweaters styled with a generous round collar and long, comfortably wide, sleeves, at $3.95 each.

These sweaters, regularly $4.95, come in white, red and soft pastel blue. Children's sizes 8 to 14 are offered.

Cotton drill or 'bush cloth' is the only fabric, apart from blue jeans, that can stand up sturdily to the wear and tear afforded by the young harum-scarum boy. Well-cut trousers, pre-shrunk, come in grey, green, blue, khaki and black. Sizes six to 10 are $3.95 a pair; from 11 to 16, $4.95 a pair.

If you would like to know where Penny did her shopping, give her a ring at EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If You're a Worry Wart, At Least Don't Frown!

If you have to worry, just is fruitless and extremely damaging.

Life is so short that it seems sinful to spend any of it in absolutely useless worry, or to worry about things which are not really important.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Watchwords of Science for Youth after Forty," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 61. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

LOWMAN without the lines and puffs.

Folks so often damage not only their looks but their health with useless worry. Of course, worry is a healthy and natural part of every intelligent, normal individual's life. It is a part of not being satisfied with things as they are and moving on to better things. It is a part of self-preservation. It is a part of our love and concern for others. It is a part of our preparation for the future.

A certain amount of constructive worry is essential to happy existence and to success. I am not talking about that sort of worry, but the kind that gets on your back and stays there while you fret and fume and get indigestion and stiff joints, and do nothing about getting it off your back. Most of the time, what we worry about isn't worth the price we pay in loss of health, loss of a youthful outlook, and added lines.

It seems to me that in difficult situations one simply must get "cutoffs" in order to survive. The only way an intelligent person can get cutoffs is to do all he can to solve the problem, or change the situation. When you've done everything that can be done, worry

Edinburgh's Royal Mile Must Be Walked to Be Seen and Remembered

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Iain F. Anderson, FLSGS, secretary of the Scottish Tourist Board, knows every inch of Scotland, from John o' Groats to the Rinn of Galloway. He's delved into its history; dug out its stories and he's written a book published thousands of words on his "ain country". Forbes

You can understand then, that when he sat back in his chair and said: "To really see it, and to remember what you see, you must walk" — he meant it.

He was talking of Edinburgh's Royal Mile.

"Of course, there's a bus tour," he said hesitantly, "and you could take a taxi." His crisp Edinburgh accent slowed down a pleasing note.

I walked.

The cobble stones, humped and uneven, bruised and hurt my feet; the roadway tilted down hill with every intention of making it difficult to do it at a stroll; my camera bag weighed a ton—but I walked. When I reached the gateway to Holyrood Palace, I looked back up the hill to the Castle on the Rock. I thought of the Wynde and the Closes, narrow and dim, that led off at right angles the whole length of the Mile; the children I had seen under the archways and down the narrow cobbled alleys; the history that had come to life for me at the doorsteps of soot-stained houses, and I knew I would always be glad I had taken Mr. Anderson's advice.

Before we started he explained that the Mile is divided into different parts — The Castle Esplanade, Castle Hill, Lawn Market, Parliament Square, High Street and Canongate.

CANON GAIT

"Not many people know that the last name was originally the Canon Gait," he told me.

"In the days when holy men walked that part of the Mile from Holyroodhouse they did so with a queer waddling step, necessitated by their heavy robes and the rough cobblestones. Hence the Canon Gait."

"Like many another truth the words have been corrupted in our modern usage," he mourned.

We started our walk at the Esplanade and immediately saw a house at the top of a fortune by robbing graves silver in the outline of a heart, sometimes two hearts entwined, and with a crown on the top. Men gave these brooches to their sweethearts as love tokens. Later, when they were married and the babies arrived, the brooches were used as shawl pins."

Finally we came to Holyroodhouse, now the official residence of Her Majesty the Queen when in Edinburgh.

Down the years it has been in turn an abbey, a royal guest house, the home of Prince Charles Edward in 1745, the residence of Mary Queen of Scots and the setting for the murder of her secretary, Rizzio.

"An innocent looking bit of paper now," M. Anderson said, "but it earned many a Scotter who signed it, a martyr's death."

Leaving St. Giles we came to the Troon Kirk, not so old as other buildings on the Mile but well known as the place where crowds have gathered on Hogmany for many years to welcome in the New Year. This kirk is soon to be pulled down to make way for a parking lot.

On the edge of the Canongate is John Knox House where he lived in his last years and where he died in 1572; across the street is Moray House, turreted and gabled and with the same corbelled balconies on which the Marquis of Argyll on his wedding day in 1630, stood to watch Montrose pass to his death at the Mercat Cross.

Ten years later the Marquess met the same fate for his adherence to the Cromwellian cause. In Huntley House, in the Canongate, erected in 1517, is a copy of the National Covenant, signed at Greyfriars Church in February, 1638. It wasn't hard to look back up the hill and to imagine the voice of John Knox thundering out—as it did for the six years of her reign—in denunciation of the queen's gay ways. It wasn't hard at all.

HE BATHHOUSE

Still standing near the entrance gate, and far from the palace today, is a turreted stone bathhouse that Mary Queen of Scots used.

In the gathering twilight it wasn't hard to visualize the beautiful queen coming quickly with her ladies to the little stone building. It wasn't hard to believe that a ripple of laughter floated out and that a tiny white hand waved from the narrow window.

It wasn't hard to look back up the hill and to imagine the voice of John Knox thundering out—as it did for the six years of her reign—in denunciation of the queen's gay ways. It wasn't hard at all.

Adlai Scores Russian 'Freedoms'

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States today accused the Soviet Union of cynical suppression of freedoms while trying to picture the Western powers as supporters of colonialism.

The U.S. charge was made by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson at a special session of the UN General Assembly. He was replying to an attack by Soviet delegate Platon D. Morozov Monday on foreign-held military bases.

Stevenson called Morozov's attack "shameless" and said it should be ignored. He compared the record of the Soviet Union with that of France, which he said had freed numerous territories since the Second World War while the Russians were obliterating countries which resisted the presence of Soviet troops.

The U.S. delegate told the 99-nation assembly Soviet forces still were in Poland, Hungary, East Germany and other countries 16 years after the end of the war.

The cold war flare-up came during a debate on the French-Tunisian dispute. Stevenson declared that the United States believes that the only way to a solution is through negotiations. He said it would not be useful to adopt a resolution which might prolong the stalemate.

RUSSIAN REPLIES

Morozov immediately replied by accusing Stevenson of trying to distract world attention from the main issues. He said the Soviet delegation "repudiated all those attempts to besmirch the policy of the Soviet government."

Morozov asked Stevenson what should be the goal of the negotiations between France and Tunisia, if not the immediate withdrawal of French forces. He said this was the crux of the dispute and it had been passed over in silence by Stevenson.

East Berlin Cheers Greet Adenauer

(Times News Services)

BERLIN—Crowds of East Berliners cheered Konrad Adenauer today as the West German chancellor toured the barricaded border between East and West Berlin.

Communist loudspeaker trucks blasted attacks against Adenauer on two occasions but tense-faced "people's" police were unable to prevent excited East Berliners from gathering to wave at him.

A police cordon held back a large crowd of Communist-zone residents in the Brunnenstrasse, about 500 yards from the Brandenburg Gate, but the East Berliners recognized Adenauer's motorcade and began cheering and waving handkerchiefs.

The chancellor toured the sector border shortly after he arrived from Bonn with a promise that West Germany will use its "full political and oral power" to preserve the freedom of West Berliners in coming negotiations with Russia.

In the Potsdamer Platz, junction of the Soviet, U.S. and British sectors, Communist loudspeaker taunts referred to Adenauer as "Dear Konny" and said his "serious face" recalled the rages of Adolf Hitler.

PLAY MUSIC

At the Brandenburg Gate another truck played a Western hit tune as Adenauer drove up for a look at the closed crossing point. The truck boomed out an ironic welcome: "You come late, Mr. Chancellor, we have acted in the meantime."

About 200 yards behind the gate scores of the East Berliners—some armed with binoculars—gathered. Police and East German soldiers ordered them to move on but few left the scene.

Adenauer also was cheered by East Berlin citizens as he passed Communist-zone houses that front the border with West Berlin. East Germans waved and wept in windows along the Bernauerstrasse.

The loudspeaker truck at the Potsdamer Platz was accompanied by a water cannon that pointed its hose in Adenauer's direction.

Thousands of West Berliners lined the streets to wave to Adenauer.

A crowd of several hundred cheered Adenauer as he drove

Armchair Talk Hit by Strauss

MUNICH (Reuters)—Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss warned Monday night against demands for Western countermeasures to East German restrictions in Berlin.

"Those who sit in their comfortable armchairs and call for military action would certainly get cold feet if their call-up papers suddenly arrived in the mail," he told an election meeting.

France Holds Up Talks on Berlin

LONDON (UPI)—France was reported today to be delaying allied plans for a diplomatic move to arrange talks with Russia on Berlin.

The French diplomatic dispatches here said, want to leave the first move for any East-West negotiations up to Moscow on the ground the Russians caused the Berlin crisis in the first place.

Reds Detain U.S. Soldiers

BERLIN (AP)—A U.S. Army major and three sergeants were held for an hour by East German police today when they tried to leave East Berlin after a short visit.

All were in uniform and driving in a khaki-painted army sedan, with "U.S. Army" stencilled on it in large white letters.

An East German police officer told reporters the Americans did not have proper papers and had not conducted themselves correctly.

Big Power Meet Urged by Nehru

$392,000 Art Treasure Stolen

LONDON (CP)—A Goya portrait of the Duke of Wellington was stolen from Britain's National Gallery today. The picture recently was bought for the nation for £140,000 ($392,000) amid a great controversy.

An East German police officer told reporters the Americans did not have proper papers and had not conducted themselves correctly.

Scotland Yard said the picture vanished overnight. The trustees of the gallery called in Yard detectives first thing this morning.

ART THEFT IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—A car with 10 paintings in the trunk—among them a French landscape by Monet and a street scene by Utrillo—was reported stolen from a garage here Monday night.

OFFERS TO SELL

Wrightsman immediately offered to sell it to the gallery for the £140,000 which he paid for it.

A campaign among art lovers to keep it in the country followed and early this month treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd announced Britain would buy it back.

The portrait is the best known of three which Francisco Goya painted of the Duke of Wellington, the "Iron Duke" who was one of Britain's great heroes of the Napoleonic wars.

The robbery came nine days after eight Cezanne masterpieces were snatched from a gallery in Aix-en-Provence, France. Speculation immediately arose that the London thief might be the work of the same gang.

Both the Cezanne and the Goya pictures are far too famous ever to be sold on an open market.

The rash of bigtime art robberies has baffled police in Europe and the United States. The loot in every case is so well known that it is unsaleable.

Situation Critical

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (UPI)—Gander International Airport was forced to shut down its facilities today in order to permit "every available person" to fight a forest fire that moved to within a half-mile of the big air terminal.

An airport spokesman said that the fire was being contained by fire breaks a half mile from the airport. South-easterly winds ranging from 12 to 15 miles an hour and occasionally gusting to 20 miles an hour made the situation even more critical.

"It wasn't so much that the airport is in danger from the fire but that we needed every available person to help fight the fire," the spokesman said.

The official estimated that between 400 and 500 men at the base helped swell the number of fire fighters to about 2,000.

AIR LINES ADVISED

The official said that "fortunately the fuel reservoirs are not in any immediate danger because they are located about two miles away."

International Air Lines was advised earlier this afternoon to use alternate facilities.

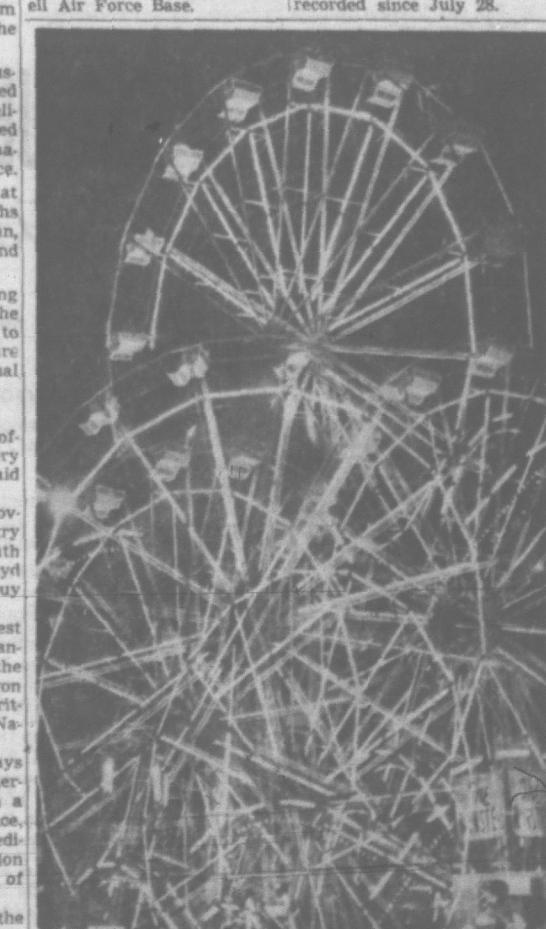

The airport official said the fire was burning on a split front five to eight miles wide. The fire front still was four or five miles from the town of Dead Man's Pond three miles from the airport.

There was no short-range forecast of rain or change in the direction of wind which had been pushing the fire closer to the airport. The fire front still was four or five miles from the town of Dead Man's Pond three miles from the airport.

A fleet of Avenger water bombers during the day drenched fires started by "devil winds"—winds created by the heat of fires which hurl flaming sparks into the air and carry them for more than a mile.

SKIES CLEAR

Ninety fires were raging in the giant northern forest district which covers a third of B.C.'s physical area. Skies during the day were clear of dense smoke that has plagued air fire-fighting operations. No measurable rain has been recorded since July 28.

West Germans Cool Off After Early Berlin 'Flap'

By HANS NEUERBOURG
FRANKFURT (AP)—National feelings stirred up by the East German action of sealing off the Berlin border is slowly subsiding and West Germans are probing for a way out of the Berlin crisis.

Even Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, normally not one to change his mind swiftly, has considerably softened his approach.

There have been small, but significant, indications that certain influential quarters would favor a reappraisal of Bonn's policy toward the East.

Immediately after the Red clampdown in Berlin, Adenauer said the West was considering massive counter-measures, including a possible embargo on all trade with the East.

When the Big Three failed to take up Adenauer's suggestions, large sections of the West German press criticized what they called Allied do-nothingness.

Then the Bonn government shifted its course and began to urge caution. Cabinet members said economic sanctions were out of the question. Defense Minister Franz Joseph Strauss spoke against a "strong man policy" toward Moscow.

OLD INTERURBAN LINE TO SAVE VANCOUVER?

his solution

VANCOUVER (CP) — Highways Minister Gagliardi suggested today the Greater Vancouver's old Interurban Railway should be rebuilt as an 80-mile-an-hour commuter system to put an end to the city's traffic jams and parking problems.

The minister said in an interview that such a system could feed a train a minute into the downtown area of Vancouver from as far away up the Fraser Valley as Chilliwack.

He suggested that re-establishment of the old electric rail line, started in 1891 but abandoned some years ago by the B.C. Electric, should be the subject of an express transit study by the B.C. Research Council.

The minister said the right-of-way and some of the old tracks into the Fraser Valley are still in existence.

"It sounds to me like the solution and I haven't been so wrong in the past, have I?" the minister said.

FRUIT JUICE 'THE BERRIES' TO RUSSIAN ASTRONAUT

MOSCOW (UPI) — Astronaut Gherman Titov's space dinner began with a tube of toothpaste-like concentrated soup.

The latest installment of Titov's autobiography being published by the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said the meal was rounded out with beef and liver paste, real bread, vitamin pills, water and black currant juice—all encased in five-ounce tubes.

Titov said the tubes lost their weight in space and so did the food and drink. The astronaut said he spilled a few drops of the fruit juice during his state of weightlessness.
